—19 DEAD—

Track Wasn't In Line

Steelton, Pa. (AP) — A track out of alignment may have caused part of a Pennsylvania Railroad baseball special to derail into the shallow Susquehanna River at nearly 70 miles an hour, the railroad said Sunday.

Nineteen persons died when 5 cars of the 9-car train to Philadelphia left the tracks. Authorities at first had difficulty counting the bodies because some were mangled. About 100 persons were injured. Thirty-four were hospitalized.

The crash was the nation's worst rail disaster since Sept. 15, 1958 when 48 died as a train plunged through an open drawbridge at Bayonne, N.J., into Newark Bay.

Higher Estimate

At one time the railroad estimated the number of victims at 23. Other reports indicated the number was 25. Sources at the scene said many of the dead were dismembered.

James F. Newell, vice president in charge of operations for the railroad, said Sunday, "the derailment was apparently the result of track being out of alignment, but definite cause cannot be assigned until a thorough investigation has been completed."

The train, carrying fans to a National League baseball game between the Pittsburgh Pirates and the Philadelphia Phillies was rolling at about 70 miles an hour, railroad officials said. The derailment occurred next to the Bethlehem Steel Co. plant.

Left Harrisburg

The train had left a few minutes earlier from the state capital at Harrisburg where all the passengers boarded. Many of them were fathers and sons, mothers and daughters carrying pennants and peanuts for the game. Some of the pennants floated down the river after the crash.

After tumbling down the angled 40-foot embankment two of the shattered cars came to rest on their sides. A third, its roof shredded, remained upright in about 3 feet of water.

Several bodies were strewn along the slope. Most were trapped in the wreckage.

The death toll might have been higher through drowning except that the broad stream is extremely low after an 11-week drought.

Lincoln Man Critical After Auto Mishap

Floyd Purchase, 55, of 2945 O, was listed in critical condition at St. Elizabeth Hospital early Monday after a head-on collision near 21st and Cornhusker Highway.

Purchase's wife, Dorothy, 55, also was hospitalized with injuries suffered in the crash. A spokesman said her condition was fair.

The Purchase car and one driven by John Scott, 45, of 4126 Madison collided. Scott was in good condition at St. Elizabeth Hospital.

The accident occurred about midnight Saturday.

Purchase is the manager of Samardick of Lincoln, armored car service.

Valparaiso Youth Drowns In Lake

Valparaiso (AP) —Kenneth Hladik, 18, of Valparaiso drowned Sunday while attempting to swim across a lake at a soil conservation dam, about 6 miles northwest of Valparaiso.

Acting Coroner John Edstrom said Hladik was swimming with two companions, Jerome and Ronald Hakel, when he went down. He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Leo Hladik.

The Valparaiso Rescue Squad, under the direction of James Margrave, recovered the body about two hours later.

2-Year-Old Steals Show At Roller Skating Meet

By TOM HUTSON
Star Staff Writer

In sports, the maxim "start 'em young" is frequently heard.

And this is just what a Federal Way, Wash., roller skating teacher is doing.

Mrs. Winette Hackmann put her daughter, Wendy, on skates when she was a little more than a year old.

Skates By Herself

Now the tiny two-year-old skates by herself around her grandmother's roller rink.

Dressed in a prim and proper pink dress, and pulling around a squawking toy dog, she stole the show from the other skaters at Pershing Auditorium Sunday night.

Although not a contestant in this American Amateur Championships, her parents hope that she will be able to compete soon.

She is already a registered amateur skater of the Roller Skating Rink Operators Association, the organization that sanctions amateur roller skating in the United States and Canada.

Bit Hesitant

Amazed by the attentions of a photographer and onlookers, the red-haired tot was a little hesitant to show her best skating form.

But when Mother decided it was bedtime and the skates must come off, the tears started.

Not a champion this year, but given a few years Wendy Hackmann may be someone to contend with.

Results of the 5 final events held Sunday night can be found in The Star's sports section.

Crowd Batters Mosley

... OLD FASCIST

Manchester, England (AP) — Yelling demonstrators battered Sir Oswald Mosley to the ground Sunday during a march through Manchester by his extremist rightwing British Union Movement.

Police formed around the leader and warded off attackers as crowds on the sidewalk roared "he is a traitor, he must be removed."

Rocks and tomatoes hurtled towards 40 marchers tramping along Bellevue Street behind a vanguard of flagbearers and drummers.

Many Arrested

At least 46 persons were arrested, including one official of the Union Movement.

Squads of patrolmen and mounted police called for reinforcements as the crowds swelled up into a human barrier across the road. Some of the marchers' flags were snatched away and torn to shreds. A woman dashed from the crowd and walloped a marcher with her handbag.

Cries of "get him" and "stop him" shrilled across the street as police slowly cleared a path for Mosley, who appeared shaken.

Boos, Jeers

When the procession reached its destination for an open air meeting, police — by this time 250 strong — cordoned off 50 yards of space from the speakers. When Mosley stood up, his words were drowned in a clamor of boos and jeers. Mosley afterward slipped away in a private truck. It was just a week ago that a rally which he led in London's Trafalgar Square was broken up by fist-swinging crowds.

Mosley was the leader of Britain's blackshirt movement in the 30s. Though now claiming to shun such policies as anti-Semitism, the Union Movement is still regarded as a rallying ground for fascists elements in Britain.

Bassett Liquor Vote Is Tuesday

The action is the result of a petition submitted to the council and signed by about 60 voters, well above the 10% required to put the issue on the ballot.

This will be the 3rd time the issue has been put to the vote in Bassett.

Rocket-Firing Subs Red Navy Backbone

. . . SOVIETS PARADE NEW FLEET STARS

Moscow (AP) — Rocket-firing atomic submarines are now the backbone of the Soviet Navy, Russia's navy chief Adm. Sergei Gorshkov, said Sunday.

"The Soviet fleet is now more modern than the navy of any capitalist country," Gorshkov asserted in a Pravda article written for the annual celebration of Soviet Navy Day.

The star of this year's celebration was clearly the Soviet Union's new atomic submarine fleet, which Western experts express belief is now equipped with underwater launching devices similar to the American Polaris.

3-Hour Special

Moscow television Sunday morning carried a 3-hour special broadcast from the Baltic port of Leningrad, where units of Soviet fleet paraded on the Neva River. Most of the ships shown riding at anchor in midstream were tired old conventional craft — cruisers, destroyers and minesweepers.

The submarines were kept out of sight of the TV cameras except for a 5-minute sequence in which a modern sub sailed downriver, submerging and surfacing for the benefit of the spectators.

This submarine, No. 329, resembled American nuclear-powered submarines but the TV narrator describing the vessel made no mention of propulsion mechanisms or combat capabilities.

The vessel was submerged, with only the periscope visible, when she passed closest to the TV cameras. She surfaced downriver and executed a tight turning maneuver.

Television viewers in Moscow sighted what appeared to be the stern of another submarine, somewhat larger than the one shown, hidden from view behind the Kirov bridge across the Neva.

Gorshkov, in his article said:

"The basis of our naval fleet is atomic submarines armed with powerful rockets and homing torpedos with nuclear warheads. They have high speed, great depth of submersion and can operate for extended periods in the most distant regions.

Subs, Subs, Subs

The new submarines were the center of attention in other articles devoted to the Navy Day celebration.

The newspaper Sovyetskaya Rossiya quoted Gorshkov as saying in an interview that the new submarines had made voyages under the Arctic ice cap. This was believed to be the first mention of such Soviet exercises, first carried out successfully by American submarines.

Trud, the labor union organ, published an article containing an account by a witness of the launching of missiles weighing "several tons" from submarines participating in exercises in the Barents Sea last week.

—BEN BELLA APPROVES—

Guerrillas Take Over In Algiers

Algiers (AP) —Algerian guerrilla forces took control of Algiers at dawn Sunday and moved to form a military junta to act in the name of national unity. Dissident Deputy Premier Ahmed Ben Bella indicated his approval, although it was not clear whether the guerrillas support his quest for power.

Under the leadership of 27-year-old Col. Si Hassan, a former medical student, 2,000 guerrillas in the splotched camouflage uniforms of the French army swept into the nation's capital from the outskirts in an apparent move to impose a solution in the feud between Ben Bella and moderate Premier Ben Youssef Ben Khedda.

Hassan told newsmen he sought to form a junta to rule pending general elections in this newly independent nation. Elections for a constituent assembly are scheduled for Aug. 12.

Squabbling

In talks with newsmen earlier, Hassan said his men would not stand too long for chaos caused by political squabbling.

He said he and his officers believe the only solution is a junta or "directorate" or wilaya (military zone) commanders until the elections are held.

Hassan's forces had moved into the city from Wilaya 4, which surrounds Algiers.

Dissolved

Hassan announced he had dissolved the politically influential "autonomous zone" of Algiers and incorporated the city into his wilaya. The wilaya has been officially backing the government of Ben Khedda.

In the West Algerian city of Oran, Ben Bella indicated he favored Hassan's move by saying at a news conference he approved the plan to eliminate the Algiers "autonomous zone" and incorporate it into the surrounding wilaya.

There was no evidence, however, that the guerrilla forces had acted in favor of Ben Bella's effort to wrest power from Ben Khedda. The key cities of Oran, Constantine and Bone are occupied by regular army forces backing Ben Bella. But all feuding factions insist they want unity and will do anything to avoid a show of force.

Stays In Palace

Ben Khedda remained at his ornate summer palace as the guerrilla forces moved in.

After Hassan's men took over, Radio Algiers appealed to the population to support the guerrillas. The appeal was particularly directed to the Europeans still living here. It called on them to look to the future with "calm and hope."

The broadcast stressed the army fully approved of the Evian peace accords through which France granted Algeria independence. The peace agreement guarantees the Europeans' interests in independent Algeria.

Concern

The appeal was seen as an expression of the concern of the military leaders to keep the European community in the country and thus salvage something of its crumbling economy.

Beside the radio appeal and the presence of armed men in several points of the city, the inhabitants saw few signs of a coup.

The city basked in hot summer sun and many Europeans went to the beaches as usual.

101,000 Answer SOS Call

By DICK STUCKEY
Star Staff Writer

Over 101,000 persons participated in Lincoln's second Sabin Oral Sunday yesterday, an increase of 2,500 over the first of the 3-stage citywide polio vaccinations June 17.

Final closing figures at the Donley Medical Supply Co., headquarters for SOS, showed that 101,488 doses of the vaccine had been given at 23 clinics in Lincoln and at the Lincoln Air Force Base.

About 3,000 vaccinations will be given at Lincoln hospitals, children's homes, the State Penitentiary, and the State Reformatory later this week, bringing the total for the Type III vaccine close to 105,000.

Ceresco, Wilber and Syracuse clinics held earlier estimated that about 2,000 Lincolnites received the vaccine there. These clinics were not held before the Type I vaccinations June 17.

No Make-Up

These figures compare to an 8-hour June 17 turnout of 98,943 and a make-up clinic which boosted the total for the Type I vaccine to 107,000. No make-up clinic will be held for persons who missed yesterday's vaccination.

Dr. Hobart Wallace, chairman of the SOS committee for the sponsoring Lancaster County Medical Society, called the second SOS a "slick operation."

"We ironed out the few bugs in the June clinic," he said, "and with the exception of a volunteer worker decrease due to vacations, this SOS went considerably smoother."

The 3rd SOS will be held Sept. 23, when the final dosage, Type II vaccine, will be given.

Wallace emphasized that Lincolnites must get Type II vaccine for complete immunization.

"The city possibly could be hit with an epidemic from polio viruses covered with Type II," Wallace said, "but a similar turnout in September will give Lincoln 80 to 85 per cent immunity from polio and make an epidemic impossible."

None In State

No cases of polio have been noted in Nebraska yet this year, according to Dr. Arthur Smith Jr., president of the Lancaster County Medical Society.

"The real results and effectiveness of SOS will be seen in 3 to 4 years," he said.

Wallace stated that with few exceptions, all clinics Sunday ran behind the heavy June 17 first hour rush. He noted a few lines when clinics opened at 11 a.m., but these rapidly diminished and no bottlenecks were reported.

The first hour figure of 19,654 was the hourly high. Twenty-five thousand turned out during the same time June 17. Each succeeding hour Sunday averaged about 11,500 participants, compared to a 9,000 average for the June clinic.

Greatest hourly participation at any one clinic was at Lincoln High School, where 1,600 persons took the vaccine the first hour. Millard Leffler School showed the greatest total participation.

Volunteers Praised

Officials again praised the work of 1,500 volunteers. The PBX telephone operators club ran telephones at each clinic, eliminating a communications breakdown which occurred during the June clinic.

Two Lincoln ham radio operators clubs also volunteered services in SOS clinic-headquarters communications. Five Nebraska National Guard jeeps and 32 Boy Scout runners aided the ham operators.

John Luebs, logistics chairman, said that there was a decided shift in clinic attendance. Many people were taking the second vaccine dose at a different location than in June, he said.

Each clinic site was given 100 doses more than its total participation during the June SOS, and most finished the day without having to ask for more vaccine.

A Lincoln hot rod club, pressed into day-long delivery service June 17, had little work this time, as the experience of the first clinic practically erased the problem of running out of vaccine at any one clinic, Luebs said.

Volunteers visited the city jail early Sunday and inmates were given the sweet-tasting second dose. "Tastes just like peppermint Schnapps," one 30-day prisoner said.

Working personnel at the Pershing Municipal Auditorium roller skating festival were also given the vaccine. Participants in the roller skating show had earlier been invited to take the vaccine at any clinic.

Demos Prepare To Continue Filibuster

... ON SPACE COMMUNICATIONS

Washington (AP) — A few liberal Democratic senators prepared Sunday to continue their filibuster against a space communications bill while another liberal accused them of doing irreparable harm to the civil rights cause.

The denunciation came from Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., who usually lines up with those who now are striving to prevent an early vote on an administration-backed, House-passed measure to set up private ownership of the U.S. portion of the fast-developing satellite communications system.

This time, as assistant majority leader, Humphrey not only is guiding efforts to break the filibuster but is denouncing his erstwhile allies for what he sees as the indirect damage they are inflicting on hopes for future civil rights legislation.

The struggle is to be resumed in the Senate Monday after a Sabbath truce following Saturday's strange "silent filibuster" in which the Senate spent all but 6 minutes of a 10-hour, 12-minute session trying to round up a quorum.

Humphrey deplored in an interview the all-out resistance that opponents of the bill are putting up against a motion to take it up for debate. The filibusterers favor government ownership of a space communications system they say is developing mainly through tax-supported programs.

Humphrey said some of the same senators who have condemned the rules of the Senate for permitting obstructive tactics and urged their revision during Southerners' civil rights filibusters now are making full use of these rules themselves.

"I don't think they can come into future battles for civil rights legislation with clean hands," Humphrey told newsmen.

, Humphrey, who has been in the forefront of past drives for civil rights measures, says he always has taken a position that bills should be permitted to be brought up so that the Senate can debate them and act on them.

"Let's at least let bills into the legislative garden and not keep them at the gate," he said.

So far in this battle, the Senate leadership has succeeded only in offering a motion to call the measure up for consideration.

And for long hours Saturday, even this small step forward was in danger of being lost at an unusual Saturday session which was called to wear out the filibusterers but which missed that mark completely.

Ike Surrenders To Swedes

. . . TAKES BACK OLD SWIPE AT SOCIALISM

Stockholm (AP) — Dwight D. Eisenhower surrendered unconditionally to the Swedes Sunday. He took back a remark about Sweden's socialism that kicked up a tempest two years ago.

The Swedes turned out 2,000 strong — an unusual number to be at the railway station on a quiet Sunday morning — to cheer Eisenhower as he stepped off the express from Copenhagen.

The crowds milling around him probably had forgotten about the remark Eisenhower made at a Republican National Committee breakfast in Chicago on July 27, 1960 about rising suicides under socialism. But he hadn't.

Make Clear

Stepping to a microphone in the royal lobby of the Stockholm Central Station, Eisenhower said:

"Before anybody gets the chance to ask, I want to make clear that the remark about Sweden which I made in Chicago some years ago was based on what I had then recently read in an American magazine.

"Since then, I have had many friends who have returned from Sweden and who have told me that I was wrong."

Eisenhower said he now was convinced he was wrong: "I admit it, and I apologize for my error."

Crowd Cheers

The crowd cheered, and as Eisenhower, his wife and party walked out of the station to waiting automobiles one spectator shouted in English: "Hello there, Ike."

The welcome to Sweden was warm in the press as well, but the liberal Dagens Nyheter couldn't resist a gentle needling in welcoming him as the man who helped rid Europe of Nazi rule.

"The gratefulness we feel to Eisenhower in that big role," the newspaper said, "need not exclude a quiet hope that his short stay here will give him an opportunity to make himself better informed about our conditions."

Drunkenness

What had nettled Swedes was Eisenhower's remark in Chicago that suicides had soared, drunkenness had increased and a lack of ambition was apparent "in a friendly European country" that "has a tremendous record for socialistic operation."

He did not mention Sweden by name, but Swedes knew he meant them and press and politicians of all political persuasions jumped on the speech.

Stockholm's afternoon newspaper turned out extras bannering Eisenhower's apology.

Ike Apologizes

"Ike apologized for his remarks about Sweden," said Afotnbladet, a labor-owned newspaper close to Premier Tage Erlander's social-democratic government. The newspaper's front page and a full inside page was devoted to Eisenhower's activities in his first hours in Sweden.

"Sunny Ike asks every Swede to excuse him," said the banner in the liberal newspaper Expressen, Sweden's largest daily.

In high spirits Sunday, Eisenhower told a news conference he hoped some of Mrs. Eisenhower's distant Swedish relatives would come to see them in Stockholm.

Annual Ram Show, Sale Here Aug. 3

The Nebraska Registered Sheep Breeders will hold their 26th Annual Ram Show and Sale Friday in the 4-H Building at the State Fairgrounds.

"The sale provides a good opportunity to get some stud rams and to acquire commercial rams. Good purebred replacement yearling ewes can also be obtained," according to Dr. Ted Doane, University of Nebraska extension sheep specialist.

Sheep men from neighboring states are expected to attend the program and sale, said D.V. Spohn of Superior, president of the sheep breeders.

The program includes reports on Nebraska sheep experiments by Dr. Doane and market lamb production in the British Isles by Al Innes of the Midwest Wool Marketing Association.

Judging the rams and ewes will be Tom Dean of Manhattan, Kan., and Bill Esry, shepherd at the NU College of Agriculture.

Consigned to the sale are 102 Hampshire, Suffolk, Southdown, Shropshire, Corriedale and Cheviot rams and 30 ewes from the following producers:

Average In FarmValue Hiked $10

The average value per farm in Nebraska increased from $159 to $169 between 1959 and 1962, according to Fred Olson, farm economist of the University of Nebraska Extension Service.

In this same period the average size of farms increased from 528 to 564 acres. This year the land on the average farm in this state was worth $46,352. Buildings were worth an additional $7,237.

The number of farm title transfers in Nebraska decreased from 40.5 per 1,000 farms in 1960-61 to 33.9 in 1961-62.

A study by USDA's Economic Research Service shows the average value per acre of farm real estate reached a new high of $123 per acre in the U.S. in 1962, 5% higher than in the previous year.

The average farm has 336 acres, and is worth $41,400. About $32,800 of this is accounted for by land, and the balance, $8,600, by farm buildings.

Tapes Help NU Blind Student Earn Degree

Hours spent with a tape recorder listening to tapes made by inmates at the penitentiary, reading sessions with students from a sorority and fraternity on the University campus — these were the means of learning for one student who will receive his diploma from the University of Nebraska Friday evening at the summer commencement exercises.

Dan A. Hoevet, 23, of Crawford is a blind student who will earn his Bachelor of Science degree in Arts and Sciences after 4 years and two summers at the University.

Dan attended grade and high school at the Nebraska School for the Blind in Nebraska City. He came to the University and took a major in economics and minors in political science and business administration.

He joined Delta Sigma Pi fraternity and N Club. He earned a letter in wrestling during his junior year.

This fall Dan will return to campus to pursue his interest in psychology and economics on the graduate level. He is interested in the personnel and human relations field, hopes eventually to work in employe counseling. Economics also interests him and he still entertains the idea of entering the field of labor economics or a job with the government.

His parents are Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Hoevet of Crawford.

Larry Hudkins of Raymond, 1962 Star FFA Farmer of Nebraska, has never gone about his farm duties with more interest or appreciation.

We stopped to visit with Larry the day after he returned home from a journey to 8 European countries including visits behind the Iron Curtain with 52 Nebraska FFA members on a Goodwill Agricultural Mission.

"We just don't appreciate how lucky we are to live in America, until you see the conditions that exist elsewhere," said Larry.

Larry said that the FFA members could feel confident that the United States has undisputed leadership in agriculture. They viewed antique methods and equipment as the only source of producing food in Hungary, Poland and Czechoslovakia.

"The first thing we wanted when we got back to the U.S. was a T-bone steak, and you never saw 53 boys make shorter work of a good beef dinner in your life," said Larry.

The 53 FFA members were the first group of their kind to get out on the farms in communist-dominated countries.

Richard M. Kildee, Fremont FFA advisor who headed the trip, will be pleased to furnish the names of boys in different parts of Nebraska who made the trip and will be available to report their experiences.

There are some bright spots in the dairy industry.

Americans consumed record amounts of cheese, fluid non-fat and low fat milk during 1961.

Cheese, which was consumed at the record rate of 8.5 pounds per person, has shown growth in consumer demand equaled by few other foods, according to the National Dairy Council.

The nation uses nearly twice as much cottage cheese per person as 15 years ago.

American dairy farmers again proved their efficiency in 1961. A production record of 125.5 billion pounds, and output per cow of 7,211 pounds, established new highs. In addition, the number of cows was at an all time low of 17.4 million.

SAC Info Man Retires After 20

Omaha (AP) — Maj. John J. Oswald of the Strategic Air Command's Directorate of Information will retire this week after 20 years of service.

Maj. Oswald had a major part in framing the national policy on making public details of accidents involving nuclear weapons.

Maj. Oswald is the son of John J. Oswald of Aurora and the late Mrs. Oswald.

He said he hopes to become an executive of a West Coast aerospace firm.

Mac Shakes Civil Service

London (AP) — Prime Minister Macmillan Sunday followed up the recent purge of a 3rd of his cabinet by shaking up the higher ranks of Britain's civil service.

Five top public servants were involved in changes at the treasury. Two were retired and 3 moved up. Traditions of precedence and seniority were ignored. Two of the new jobs go to men in their 40s.

The changes came as a new political team, with a new chancellor of the exchequer, is taking over. They mean that new men will be charged with execution of government policy.

Sir Laurence Helsby, 54, who was private secretary to Labor Prime Minister Attlee from 1947 to 1950, succeeds Sir Norman Brook as joint permanent secretary of the treasury and official head of the home civil service.

Brook, 60, also served as secretary of the cabinet under 5 prime ministers—Attlee, Churchill, Eden (now Lord Avon) and Macmillan. He has been called "the man with a million secrets." He is now carrying them into retirement.

To Visit Brazil

Rio De Janeiro (AP) — U.N. Acting Secretary-General U Thant will visit Brazil Aug. 8-11, the Foreign Office announced.

Israel Snuffs Out Soblen's Refuge Hope

Jerusalem (AP) — The government Sunday snuffed out the last faint hope of Dr. Robert Soblen that he might find refuge in Israel.

Under life sentence in the United States for spying for the Soviet Union, the 61-year-old psychiatrist will not be granted an immigrant's visa, a communique announced.

The cabinet decision upheld a ruling by the interior ministry Thursday rejecting Soblen's application for admission to Israel under the 1952 law of return. The law grants a home in Israel for Jews from anywhere in the world except those convicted of certain crimes.

Now in a London jail, where he wound up after skipping $100,000 bail and fleeing to Israel, Soblen still has two moves in reserve before the United States can step in to claim custody.

The British court of appeal has rejected his plea to be freed in Britain. But he can appeal to the House of Lord's Britain's highest law tribunal, or press a petition for asylum in Britain now pending before the British Home Office.

Hickory Grove School Celebrates Centennial

By DEAN TERRILL
Southeast Nebraska Bureau

Auburn — One hundred years of history learnin' took a day off for some history makin' here Sunday.

High on a green-kissed hill, some 400 friends of old Hickory Grove School paused to pay it homage. It may be Nebraska's first operating rural school to have reached the century mark, each bleached patch in its limestone walls adding to the evidence.

The original Nemaha district was changed from number 3 to 27, and on occasion classes were held in homes, but school never stopped for Old Hickory," noted Mrs. Wilbert Bohling, a sparkplug of the reunion committee.

A special centennial history compiled by alumna Leota Gebers of Brock related how the present building was constructed in 1872 — sometimes to serve also as church, community building, Farm Bureau quarters and 4-H center.

Nebraska News

Many of the early students were from 16 to 26, their "grade" being either primary, intermediate or grammar.

Classes alternated between German and English at first, Miss Gebers recalled. An all-time record enrollment of 49 in 1891-92 helped assure Schoolmaster John H. Glemer of earning his $40 per month.

Several teachers were on hand for the Sunday observance, including the present Auburn lady who started the 14-year "Lutz era" in 1920. Josie Lutz taught for 7 years, then was succeeded by a niece and sister.

Located 6 miles southwest of Auburn, Hickory has weathered well — largely through the cosmetics of modernization. A brightly - tiled floor, plastered walls, fluorescent lights and newly-shingled roof have added to its utility as well.

"Looks better than it ever did," beamed F. H. Oestmann, at 89 still a resident of the district and oldest alumnus present. "I'd have to say it's even better than when I enrolled way back in '78."

The 4-generation school came within the length of a hickory stick of being spanked out of existence in 1937. A vote to replace it finally lost out when patrons failed to ratify a required $5,000 bond issue.

Appropriately, principal speaker at an outdoor reunion program was Dr. William Streng, theology professor at Wartburg Seminary in Dubuque, Iowa. He is one of 3 brothers to have used Hickory Grove schooling enroute to the ministry — and two of his 3 sisters married ministers.

Planning committee members included Mrs. Bohling and her husband, Chairman Clarence Oestmann, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Bohling, Mrs. Walter Heidzig, Clarence Ehlers, Mrs. Walter Sohnholz and John Meyer.

Offutt Car Wreck Kills Missouri Woman

Omaha (AP)—A two-car collision on U.S. 73-75 at Offutt Air Force Base south of Omaha took the life of a Missouri woman Saturday.

Mrs. O. H. House, 69, of Amoret, Mo., died in an Omaha hospital several hours after the mishap at Offutt's Wherry Gate 4 miles south of Omaha.

State Highway Patrolman R. N. Buchholz said Mrs. House was a passenger in a southbound car driven by her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Mary House, 51, of Des Moines.

The trooper said the House car was making a left turn at the gate when it was in collision with a northbound auto driven by 21-year-old Boyd A. Latham, an Offutt airman.

The younger Mrs. House was reported in good condition at an Omaha hospital with cuts on the head and arm bruises. Latham was examined at the base hospital and released.

The death raised Nebraska's 1962 traffic fatality toll to 183, compared with 177 at this time last year.

Omaha Couple's Injuries Critical

Sioux City, Iowa (AP) — An Omaha couple was listed in poor condition in a Sioux City hospital Sunday as a result of a head-on collision on Highway 77 north of North Sioux City, S.D., Saturday night.

Critically injured were 62-year-old Zelbert Clarence and his 48-year-old wife, Florence, both of Omaha. The hospital reported their condition as poor Sunday morning.

Omaha Indians' Tribal Development Plan OK'd

By EARL DYER
Star Staff Writer

Macy—Nebraska's Omaha Indian Tribe, recent recipient of a major claim from the U.S. government, has received approval from the Secretary of Interior for a tribal development program totaling $450,000.

Biggest item so far approved is $150,000 for a credit program which will make loans available to individuals in the tribe. Also included are a scholarship fund, land purchase, expansion of the tribal farm, and a community building to be built at Macy.

The Secretary of Interior must approve the tribe's general plans and individual projects after detailed plans are completed.

The Omahas received $2.9 million this year following court rulings that the 19½ cents an acre paid the Omahans in 1854 for some 5½ million acres of land should have been 70 cents an acre.

$750 Each

Of the total received, the major part is being paid in "per capita" payments of $750 to each Omaha of a quarter or more Omaha blood. Payments have not been completed but indications are that the final roll of those eligible will list between 2,500 and 3,000 members of the tribe.

The $150,000 set aside for the credit program will make loans available to Omahas for such things as home construction and purchase of land or businesses. The program will be under the control of a 3-member credit committee, although some loans will require approval of the Tribal Council and/or Bureau of Indian Affairs officials.

Objectives of the loan fund are listed as the improvement of economic status of tribe members, encouragement of investment of "per capita" funds, utilization of reservation resources, housing improvement, alleviation of "heirship" problems (where land is held jointly by many heirs), providing educational opportunities, and making small loans to tribal members.

Loans for land purchase or home and land improvements will bear 2½% interest, educational purposes at 3% (with payments and interest beginning a year after the educational course has been completed), business and farm development at 5%, and other purposes, 4%.

Limited To Tribe

Loans are generally limited to members of the tribe living on the reservation, except for educational loans, and if for land or business or home development, only if the proposed purchase is within the consolidated reservation area.

A sum of $85,000 has been set aside for the new tribal building at Macy, which will include offices for the tribal council and business manager and all-purpose rooms for use of the tribe.

Allocations in other areas that have been approved by the Secretary of Interior include $50,000 for land purchase, $65,000 for expansion of the tribal farm, $40,000 for scholarships and $60,000 for administrative expenses.

Also approved, but with no dollar amount specified, are expenditures for economic and industrial development of the reservation area.

The tribal development program is under administration of the tribal council, headed by Chairman Alfred Wayne Gilpin.

Key Bureau of Indian Affairs officials involved will include Lewellyn Kingsley, superintendent of the Winnebago Indian Agency, and Martin N. B. Holm, area director at Aberdeen, S.D.

'Farmers Might Flood Labor Market'

Owensboro, Ky. (AP) — An official of the National Farmers Organization says a recent recommendation to reduce the number of American farm workers by two million would simply flood the labor market.

"This is not the solution to the farm problem," said Erhard Pfingsten of Sergeant Bluff, Iowa, a national director of the NFO.

"The solution is for farmers to cooperate in a program of collective bargaining to set their own prices rather than going to market and saying, 'What will you give me?' "

The Research and Policy Committee of the Committee for Economic Development (CED) called recently for farm labor to be reduced by a third, or two million workers, saying this is the real heart of the farm problem.

Remove Controls

It also called for the removal of all government controls on agriculture over the next 5 years. The CED is made up of businessmen and university economists.

Pfingsten told about 600 persons from western Kentucky, southern Indiana and southern Illinois the committee is made up mostly of persons interested in representing processors, rather than producers.

He said the claim by some that overproduction is a farm problem is propaganda.

The Real And The Unreal

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

There can be nothing but relief over the settlement of the Saskatchewan problem of medical service. The government plan of medical aid has been modified to the point where it will permit an acceptable degree of freedom on the part of both patients and doctors. The episode has not passed without considerable permanent impact, however. The Christian Science Monitor reported on a story which appeared in the New York Times. The Times carried a report by Raymond Daniell to the effect that during the 23 days of reduced medical service, the hospital load has been unusually low and the death rate has declined.

Only Cases Of Necessity

There is no real doubt that the lower death rate is nothing more than coincidence. But the reduction in the hospital load is a curious thing. Of course, hospitals could not offer the service that was usual when so many of the province's doctors were not practicing. But there still was limited hospital service. What must have happened was that people did not go to the hospital unless it was absolutely necessary to do so. The incident might well prove the belief that hospitals today are being used many times when there is no need for it.

Hospital occupancy has, for one thing, come to provide a certain kind of prestige. Faked illness can be an excuse for many things and, while it can be expensive, today's standard of living makes it much more possible than it might have been a decade or two ago. Today, if people want to indulge themselves with obsessions and delusions, they can usually do so.

In doing so, they pay a certain price but many have the ability to do this. Thus, we have people going to hospitals for colds, for tiredness and just for a plain old rest. Twenty years ago and more, people would not have dreamed of being in the hospital without a very serious cause. To go there just for a rest would have been sufficient cause to raise a question of sanity.

If the American people would start going to hospitals only when they had to, it is likely that a real decline in occupancy would take place. The same thing would be true if they called upon their doctor in the same way. Perhaps there are no more hypochondriacs today than there have ever been but there certainly seem to be. Our state of health has become such a matter of great concern that people often seem to lose their sense of perspective. We suspect that if medical service in this nation were suddenly curtailed as it was in Saskatchewan, there would be a vast number of people who would discover that the only thing wrong with them was their imagination. If anything, they need a psychiatrist but this is the one service they fail to obtain.

A different question of what is and what isn't real was settled recently, or unsettled, by the Federal Trade Commission. The commission gave an adverse ruling to an advertising program by a Florida paint company. The company has had an apparently standing sales program involving a second free can of paint with the purchase of every single can. The majority opinion of the commission ruled that the price of the first can of paint was actually equivalent to the price of two cans of paint and that the second free can was, therefore, not really free at all.

In a minority opinion, one member of the commission maintained that the new ruling will make it impossible for any retailer to know what he can do relative to the giving of free merchandise in order to promote sales. The point at issue involves gifts only when a regular purchase is made.

The commission majority apparently still believes that a free gift can be offered along with the regular purchase of a product so long as the terms of the gift are clearly understood. That is, the advertising must clearly show that to acquire the gift, you must purchase one of the articles at its regular price. Also, the regular price must not be higher than it would be were there no gift offered.

The Gullible Public

In the end, of course, there actually is no such thing as a free gift. In one way or another, the customer is going to pay for what he gets. Certainly, any company which promotes its product with free gifts is going to see to it that the cost of this promotion is included in its cost of doing business and, therefore, in the ultimate price of its regular product. What is curious about all this business is that consumers could be so easily fooled by free gift offers as to require considerable commission attention to the matter.

The buying public apparently still cannot resist the temptation to get something for nothing. The government will never be successful in completely eliminating promotional deals that take advantage of the public. The only way such practices will ever be eliminated is for the consumer to realize that no product can be given away in the full meaning of that term and that the best rule to follow is still to expect to get just what you pay for.

Irony Of Testing

The Russians are back at nuclear testing. It will be their second round since they violated the test ban self-imposed on the part of themselves and the United States. The United States is completing its first round of testing since the ban collapsed.

All one gets out of this is that the nuclear race is on more furiously than ever, all ban negotiations to the contrary, and that neither side is applying any real controls. That's how arms races generally go.

The Russian reason for test renewals fails to reach the level of logic. It excused them by stating a novel but spurious doctrine. It was that since the United States was the first nation to make nuclear tests, Russia, therefore, has a right to conduct the last test. This is the principle by which people walk and wheels turn, but it has no bearing on disarmament and escape from militarism. The actual fact is that Russia fears the American tests discovered things it does not know about. Therefore, it had better find out. That, of course, will mean that when Russia has found out then we shall have to start again.

The only escape from such a vicious circle is an exhaustion of discovery, a stage having been reached where tests fail to produce any new worthwhile knowledge. In that event both countries will be able to negotiate a test ban and turn their inquiry into a new form of race. One recalls that outlawing poison gas after World War I was hailed as a humane advancement. But it stemmed from a general conviction that as a weapon it wasn't decisive nor even dependable. Its banishment only diverted war effort into other, more promising fields.

New Welfare Law Uncertain

There is hope but it is limited that the new welfare bill now signed by President Kennedy will do what it is intended to do. The measure is likely to run into two obstacles, one ideological and the other financial. The purpose of the new legislation is to promote self-reliance and independence on the part of those on welfare rolls.

It seeks to do this by increasing from 50 per cent to 75 per cent the federal share of funds paid to states for this kind of rehabilitation work. It is thus hoped to stimulate the states into adopting more and better training programs, to hire more case workers and do other things aimed at getting welfare recipients off the rolls and on a job.

That this would be a worthy thing goes without question. The trouble is, some states will object to the plan because to get the extra 25 per cent federal aid, they will have to meet certain requirements of the federal Department of Health, Education and Welfare. This will be interpreted as federal control and that will be enough for some people to condemn it, regardless of what such condemnation might mean to those in need.

Too, while the states can get an additional 25 per cent federal aid, they will have to expand their programs to do so. Thus, even with higher federal aid, the state expenses would be likely to increase. It is intended, of course, that the plan be so successful as to eventually reduce the numbers on the welfare rolls and thereby cut the overall costs from what they are today. The actual results of the program will depend upon the states and their willingness to make an effort to understand and execute the spirit of the new law.

Excavational Philosophy

Next door to this palace of printed words there is a ragged hole in the ground surrounded by philosophers.

The hole represents a phase lying between the demolition of some old, wornout buildings and something in the way of a structure than will be new and more taxable. Such excavations are the mark of a prosperous and growing community and towns that don't have their share had better watch out.

Excavations have one thing in common. They contain an awful lot of unorganized dirt. They convince the casual non philosophical observer that no one will ever bring form and order "out of that!" But to the professional work watcher with the capacity for deep thought each hole is an inspirer of challenging ideas.

Submitting to interview, one professional watcher at this particular location indicated an early day foundation wall of rough native stone, standing exposed and not yet demolished. Said he, "They ought to leave that for future archeologists to rediscover. They love old, useless walls. Tourists 500 years from now would be crazy about it. I spent $3,000 a few years ago going about Europe looking at old foundations no different than that one. They make one imagine things."

Another philosopher viewed it differently. "You see those fellows down there laying brick? That's real skill. Don't know their names. But this country's got millions of unknown people who go about doing all those skillful things, from running engines to conducting businesses. They are the people who make the country go. They are the big horse the politicians ride around on. The backward nations can't get anywhere because they don't have those kind of people. If you are going to get anywhere you've got to have the people who can do the daily work."

It's surprising the variety of things exist in an excavation.

Rusk Describes 60-Day Crisis

WASHINGTON — On the eve of his departure for Geneva, Secretary of State Dean Rusk warned a group of senators on a Potomac cruise that "we are in for a critical 60 days."

He described the mounting tension over Berlin as a "game of bluff" which could lead to a war neither side wants.

Rusk was a grim host as he discussed the Berlin crisis on the fantail of the presidential yacht, Patrick J.

Straining to listen were Senators Engle of California, Kefauver of Tennessee, McGee of Wyoming, Moss of Utah, Sparkman of Alabama, Young of Ohio, and Saltonstall of Massachusetts (the only Republican).

Rusk explained that most minor differences had been settled, that the time had come to meet the Kremlin's demand for a withdrawal of American, British and French troops from Berlin.

"We have cleared away the underbrush," he declared, "and we are now down to the root of the matter."

* * *

The great danger, as he saw it, was that Premier Khrushchev might underestimate American determination to stay in Berlin. The Soviet leader was uncertain about American intentions and "might try to second-guess us," Rusk warned.

"We can never negotiate our presence in Berlin," he said firmly. "The problem is to convince Khrushchev we mean it."

Rusk made it clear that Khrushchev must back down from his demand for a troop withdrawal or prepare for war over Berlin.

On other subjects, Rusk felt the Laos settlement had given the West at least "a breathing spell."

He suggested that the food shortage on the Chinese mainland should restrain the Chinese Reds from foreign adventures. But on the other hand, he acknowledged that it might also make them desperate and reckless.

He did not believe, however, that the communist military build-up opposite Formosa is a serious threat.

An analysis of Russian and American nuclear tests, he also disclosed, indicates that the United States still has superior nuclear strength.

Note—During less solemn moments of the three-hour cruise, the Democratic senators merrily ribbed the only Republican on board, Senator Saltonstall. They accused him of coming to the wrong party, of being a Republican spy. When they got to speculating about President Kennedy's slip in popularity, Saltonstall predicted unhappily: "It's bound to go back up."

It Is The Season For The 'Shaggy Dog Ball'

NEW YORK — At the swanky Canoe Place Inn at swanky Hampton Bays, N.Y., a bunch of swanky socialites will give a swanky Shaggy Dog Ball, the proceeds to go to a lot of destitute dogs, penniless cats, homeless monkeys, underprivileged geese and one chinchilla.

These animals are all guests of the Hampton animal shelter, which has for years happily opened its arms to lost and strayed pets, and its purse to the donations of the wealthy. It is a nice arrangement for all concerned because it gives the patrons an opportunity to do the twist, tax-deductibly, and it keeps the shaggy dogs (and that chinchilla) off the streets.

Of course the shelter is only a temporary home for the waifs of the wag set, and it is hoped that some socialites will not only support the ball but will also take in some of its boarders . . .

* * *

Particularly that chinchilla. Seems it is immensely difficult to unload a single chinchilla to rich people, who prefer their chinchillas in large groups, stitched together plus federal tax.

This, in spite of the fact that I have it on the authority of two amateur chinchilla breeders that the little beasties make wonderful pets. They're sweet, docile and more fun than a barrel of monkeys (which isn't saying much — a barrel of monkeys is a screeching headache.) They also breed like crazy (but not, unfortunately, like rabbits) and after only a few years one can easily have enough chinchillas in the guest room to create a really fine coat.

Still none of the wealthy Hamptonites will take the chinchilla in. Which proves that money breeds money, but not chinchillas.

But there's a silver lining behind every chinchilla — perhaps this year's Shaggy Dog Ball (the seventh annual) will bring in enough money to permit the Hampton shelter to buy a mate for their most unpopular boarder. Then they can be self-supporting in no time at all, and the socialites can can turn their philanthropic terpischore in other charitable directions.

I'd like to suggest a "Yellow Mongrel Ball" — proceeds to go to the underprivileged dogs of New York City who never get out to the Hamptons for the summer social season.

* * *

And now the words of Mrs. Lillian Rose, first woman president of the Humane Society of New York, who claims that clinical records in the last 25 years prove positively that a little dog, in the care of a city child, can do more to prevent crime than a trained watchdog:

"It makes no difference what kind of dog it is—the person really cares for it is not going to become a criminal. Pets are, literally, agents for crime prevention."

FRANCIS BACON

Profiles In Science

Francis Bacon (1561-1626) was an unusual combination—judge, politician, scientific thinker.

He was the youngest son of Sir Nicholas Bacon, a lawyer and statesman, and through his mother was related to Lord Burghley, the treasurer of Queen Elizabeth I.

Bacon was a precocious child, and the learned Queen liked talking with him and asking him difficult questions. She called the boy "My Little Lord Keeper."

Bacon studied science and philosophy at Cambridge and decided that the scientific thinking of the day was useless and wrong, good only for arguments. He despised it because it had not yet been freed of the rigid cast of ancient Greek philosophy.

* * *

Bacon thought highly of himself, and his career—checkered though it was—proved he was right in considering his mental ability great. He resolved while still very young to devote his powers to mankind's good. Whether he was successful, especially in politics, is doubtful.

He was a member of parliament, first taking a seat in 1584, and became an associate of the Earl of Essex, later beheaded for treason. Bacon disgraced himself with the Queen because of an indiscreet speech in parliament.

When James I came to the English throne, Bacon used his persuasiveness in support of the theory of "prerogative," or "the divine right of kings" as it is called. He was rewarded by appointments as attorney general and lord chancellor and by being created first a baron and then a viscount.

Political and worldly success ended abruptly for Bacon when he was fined and imprisoned in the Tower of London for accepting bribes. He confessed to corrupt acts in his high state position.

* * *

Bacon considered his great achievement to be reorganization of science and explanation of a new way of discovering truth. He proposed to "found the sciences anew," believing that the old thinking was at fault in tending to assume a greater order in nature than in fact existed and to generalize from a few observations.

He said the true function of science is to find the fundamental physical qualities of "forms" and that this is done by supporting logical hypotheses with inductive reasoning and experiment.

Natural history was the base of his pyramid of science. Physics was the main body and included the shape, size and appearance of things—their density, weight and temperature. The peak of the pyramid was metaphysics—the generalized assumption made from close observation of the physical forms of nature.

Proposal For New Atlantic Union

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. —President Kennedy's proposal for a "concrete Atlantic partnership" between the United States and a united Europe could rank as a fundamental turning point in world history.

Such a grand concept, from both economic and political standpoints, would be powerful enough to match and probably overshadow any combination of communist states in this century, even if that combine of police states kept intact a frontal alliance between the Soviet Union and communist China. The chances of achieving European political union linked closely to American participation through broad ties with the Common Market appear greater than the chances during this decade of an unbroken Sino-Soviet alliance.

But the difficulties which must be overcome before President Kennedy's concept can materialize should not be underestimated, and it may never come to pass at all. The "Atlantic partnership" as outlined by the Chief Executive touched off extensive discussion and comment abroad. A review covering this whole question of an Atlantic union was made available to this column from the brilliant defense minister of West Germany, Franz Josef Strauss, who is no stranger to the U.S. He writes:

"The free nations of the world have joined to form certain regional alliances, such as NATO, CENTO and SEATO. But the requirement is not only for military alliances but—in particular in the American-European region — the political structure is at stake."

"In this context, it becomes apparent that in the struggle with communism, the free world possesses two political weapons: the unity of Europe and the relationship between America and Europe. European unity — which must embrace more than common cultural and economic ideas or a common civilization — and the partnership between America and Europe are two vital factors of Western policy."

* * *

The German defense minister continues:

"The creation of a European union must not be considered to be contradictory to the creation of an Atlantic community. The objective cannot possibly be to set up Europe as a third force of independent power between, or beside, the U.S. and the Soviet Union. It is vitally necessary to build up and expand European unity. In saying this, I mean to answer the question of whether Europe should become a third power. This would be inconceivable and untenable without a true American-European partnership.

"There can be no doubt at all that a closely allied community is necessary for the security of Europe and for the security of North America. The size of the area, the number of people, the intellectual-scientific capabilities, and the economic potentiality of this Atlantic community guarantee a successful peace policy.

"From the political and strategic aspects, the world has become one indivisible whole, technically seen, in spite of the dualism of the two power blocs.

"We need not yet wrack our brains about the future shape of this Atlantic community. But there is one assurance I should like to give our American friends: an expansion and strengthening of the European economic community and its desired transformation into a political community are not tantamount to a dismissal of the Atlantic idea, but quite the contrary to a reinforcement of that idea. America is not to be pushed out of Europe, but is to receive a European partner prepared to assume responsibility and to accept burdens for the fulfillment of the common tasks, as its strength grows.

* * *

"No one can doubt that the U.S. is the great leader of the free world. This role of leadership of the U.S. is also by no means in contrast to the desired objective of American-European partnership."

Defense Minister Strauss also warned against Soviet moves to defeat the "Atlantic partnership" idea by stating:

"The concept of a 'fortress America' may appear attractive. But it is politically unrealistic and strategically wrong; for a North America which had to rely on itself might admittedly be and remain a strategic atomic power. However, it would be faced with a constellation which cannot be eliminated by nuclear weapons.

"Therefore it is not mere coincidence but carefully considered strategic planning that the directors of the communist power theater have in the past done all they could to prevent West Germany from joining the European communities. And thus it is with careful premeditation that they keep trying, by disengagement plans, and by proposals for the creation of denuclearized zones or a neutral belt in Central Europe, to prevent European unity and over and above that to maneuver the Americans out of Europe.

"This became especially obvious some time ago when Premier Khrushchev proposed the creation of a worldwide trade community and the convocation of a world trade conference. Then he summoned to Moscow those satellite countries which were pressured into joining the Warsaw Pact in the military field. The meeting was for the purpose of surveying the repercussions of the European Common Market and its impact on the eastern European countries.

"Thus, in a way, Soviet policy gives us an indirect confirmation of the soundness of the idea of European-American partnership.

* * *

"The Federal Republic of Germany is willing to contribute its appropriate share to the implementation of this policy. We do not only want to belong to a European union and an Atlantic community; we also wish to have peaceful and friendly relations with our Eastern neighbor nations. This we cannot achieve by sacrificing the right of self-determination; we cannot—and will not — achieve it by betraying our friends in the West. Therefore our positive attitude towards European unity and towards the Atlantic community is not an aggressive act as it is branded by communist propaganda, but is an attempt to ease the political tensions resulting from the past and the present."

As the German defense minister indicates, President Kennedy has powerful supporters rooting for his "Atlantic partnership" concept in Europe.

Prado Free; Exile Ahead

Lima, Peru (AP) — Deposed President Manuel Prado was freed Sunday by the military forces that overthrew his government July 18. A relative said Prado will leave Peru — probably Monday — to live in exile abroad.

Gustavo Prado, a nephew of the 73-year-old ex-president, said a military helicopter took his uncle to Gustavo's estate on the outskirts of Lima. The former president was in good health, the newphew reported.

Prado had been held on a military transport ship at the Peruvian port of Callao since his arrest by the armed forces. His release had been expected since his 6-year term expired Saturday.

Surrounded

Guards surrounded "La Rinconada," Gustavo Prado's estate near the race tracks, and Manuel Prado's attractive wife, several other relatives and friends were there to greet him.

Gustavo Prado did not say where his uncle would live abroad. Informants said it could be France, where the former president once spent several years.

Prado's release was regarded as a major factor in U.S. deliberations on whether to recognize the military junta now in power and eventually to resume alliance for progress aid to Peru.

Very Happy

In Washington a State Department spokesman said: "we're very happy that Dr. Prado has been released." He declined further comment.

At a news conference earlier in the day, Gen. Ricardo Perez Godoy, head of the junta, said it was up to Prado whether he wanted to live abroad.

The military regime has already restored civil rights and promised to hold new elections to return civilians to control next June.

Doctors Sew Foot Back On Motorcyclist

Boston (AP) — An operation in which the severed left foot of a motorcyclist was sewn back onto the leg was termed Sunday as "successful up to this time" at Massachusetts General Hospital.

Doctors worked 5 and a half hours in the operating room to connect veins and bone after Joseph Scimone, 24, collided head-on with an automobile.

State Trooper William A. Jarrett, who was nearby as part of a force conducting gambling raids, said he found Scimone's foot dangling from the ankle with only a patch of skin or the tendon still holding it on.

The man was taken to Massachusetts General, where the skin was cut away and the foot packed in ice to keep rigor mortis from setting in while a team of doctors prepared for the re-implantation.

Doctors first joined the veins and when blood began to flow into the foot again joined the two ends of the bone. They said they will attempt to join the nerves at a later date.

It was just two months and 5 days ago that doctors at Massachusetts General successfully rejoined to the body the completely severed right arm of 12-year-old Everett (Red) Knowles Jr., of Somerville.

Young Knowles is due to re-enter the hospital this week for the critical nerve-connecting operation.

Five elderly women—including 3 sisters—in one of the cars were killed instantly. State police said they were on their way home to Poughkeepsie after having had Sunday dinner in nearby Kingston.

Escaped Kidnaper Seized In Stickup

Chicago (AP) — A prison escapee, who kidnaped a wealthy socialite for $50,000 ransom in 1934 in one of the nation's most dramatic abductions, has been seized by Chicago police after a $14 drug store stickup.

The fugitive, Thomas H. Robinson Jr., 55, escaped from the Federal Correctional Institute in Tallahassee, Fla., July 21. He was serving a life sentence — commuted from death — for the kidnaping of a wealthy Louisville socialite, Mrs. Alice Speed Stoll, then 26 years old.

Robinson related he was the escaped kidnaper Sunday while being questioned by Detective Russell Miller about the holdup Saturday morning of the Berliant Prescription Pharmacy in downtown Chicago.

The kidnaping attracted international attention. Mrs. Stoll was held in an Indianapolis, Ind., apartment until the $50,000 ransom was delivered to Robinson. Only $4,657 of the payment was recovered.

Robinson, a former employe in a gasoline station owned by the kidnaping victim's husband, Berry Stoll, wealthy oilman, was a law student at Vanderbilt University when he abducted Mrs. Stoll.

He shot up in wanted ranking to Public Enemy No. 1, but he remained free until 1936, when a girl friend tipped police and he was captured in Glendale, Calif.

He was convicted of kidnaping and sentenced to life. He obtained a new trial and drew the death penalty, but it was commuted by President Truman. Robinson, described as a model prisoner, was working on a water well, as a trusty, outside the federal prison grounds when he disappeared 8 days ago. His escape came as he was awaiting a hearing in September before the federal parole board. President Kennedy rejected Robinson's plea for a pardon in July 1961.

He was seized in Chicago a few minutes after taking $14 at gunpoint from the cash register of the Chicago pharmacy.

Syrians Assert Overthrow Plot By Egypt Foiled

Damascus, Syria (AP) — The Syrian government asserted Sunday it has foiled an Egypt-backed attempt to overthrow Syria's current regime and reunite the two countries under President Nasser in the United Arab Republic.

The announcement was made by Syria's interior minister, retired Maj. Gen. Aziz Abdulkarim, at a news conference here.

He said Syrian authorities had smashed in the last 4 weeks a series of antigovernment "sabotage and terror rings" in Syria.

About 150 arrests were made and "many detained saboteurs admitted their terror acts were planned by the Egyptian embassy in Beirut."

Storm Hits Grand Teton Climbers

Grand Teton National Park, Wyo. (AP)— A raging snowstorm struck towering Grand Teton Peak as a party of 10 mountain climbers neared the top Thursday and one died of exposure before rescuers reached them Sunday.

Grand Teton National Park rangers brought the 9 survivors down.

Lester Germer, Millington, N.J., and John Feniman, West Hartford, Conn., both suffering from exposure, were flown from the peak by helicopter and taken to a Jackson, Wyo., hospital.

The others were held overnight at a campsite above Garnet Canyon. A park ranger said they will descend another 1,000 feet early Monday to waiting horses and ride to the base of the peak. All 7 will be taken to the Jackson hospital for a general checkup.

The body of Stephan J. Smith, 21, of Holden, Mass., was found by rangers earlier Sunday.

Smith was one of 3 who left other members of the Appalachian Mountain Club of Boston in an effort to find a way out of the unexpected storm which struck Thursday.

"These 3 tried to make it back Friday, but couldn't," said Dr. John R. Walker, a staff physician at St. John's Hospital in Jackson, and a member of the rescue party.

"The storm hit while they all were well above timberline. There was no firewood, and the steady rain and snow made the peak treacherous."

Grand Teton Peak is 13,766 feet high, rising like a jagged knife above the shore of Jackson lake in northwestern Wyoming.

The body of Smith lies 120 feet or one rope length above the Otter Body, a snowfield at the base of a sheer cliff on the peak. A 15-man party of rangers and professional climbers will attempt to recover the body Monday.

MRS. RANEY M. ISRAELSON

MRS. JAMES A. RAWLINSON

MRS. ROGER I. SVENSON

White pompom chrysanthemums and pink gladioli decorated the chancel of the United Presbyterian Church at Hickman on Saturday evening, July 28, for the marriage of Miss Janet Sue May, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. Lynn May of Hickman, to Raney M. Israelson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Al Israelson of Le Sueur, Minn. The Rev. Norman Fowler read the lines of the service, and Mrs. Harley Scott, organist, and Mrs. Naomi Schwaninger, violinist, played the wedding music. The vocal soloist was Marlynn May, brother of the bride.

They carried arrangements of white and pink carnations.

William Israelson of Minneapolis served as best man, and the ushers were Allen Israelson, Le Sueur, Minn., Russell Egger, Gerald Kubik and Dennis Goracke, Hickman.

The bride's period gown was fashioned of white Chantilly lace and tulle. Opalescent sequins and seed pearls bordered the cameo neckline of the long-sleeved lace basque and beneath a kerchief peplum of the lace, the voluminous skirt of lace-appliqued tulle continued into a whisper train. He shoulder-length veil of illusion was held by a crown of pearl blossoms, and she carried a white Bible ornamented with a white orchid encircled with sweetheart roses.

Mr. and Mrs. Israelson will make their home in Coin, Iowa.

The bride appeared in a gown of Chantilly lace and silk organza in traditional white. The lace bodice was designed with long sleeves and a sabrina neckline, embroidered with pearls and iridescent sequins, and the bouffant skirt of organza was draped at the hemline with clusters of fabric roses to reveal an underskirt of the lace. A jeweled coronet held her veil of illusion, and she carried a cascade arrangement of red roses.

HULEN-SVENSON

The wedding of Miss Jean Marie Hulen, daughter of Mrs. Oletha Hulen of Milford, and Roger I. Cecil C. Bliss, and Mrs. Wes Matzke of Lincoln, organist, played the wedding music. The vocalist was Mrs. Jay Dunlap, Milford.

The attendants, frocked in sheaths of Nile green taffeta with full overskirts of organza, were Miss Janice Luebbe of Pleasant Dale, as the maid of honor; Mrs. Cletus Bender, Seward, the bridesmatron; and the bridesmaids, Miss Diane Sies and Miss Vivian Berger, Lincoln; and Miss Katherine Svenson, Norfolk. They carried cascades of daisies.

Wayne Hankins of Wayne served as best man, and the ushers were Gerald Eigsti and Larry Volland, Milford; Jim Conner and Arnold Boehler, Lincoln.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her brother, Lon Hulen of Los Angeles, chose a gown of white Chantilly lace and crystal-pleated tulle for her wedding. The long-sleeved bodice of lace was highlighted by a shoulder-wide, bateau neckline, and alternate tiers of ruffled lace and pleated tulle formed the wide skirt, which continued into a chapel train. A single rose of pearl-trimmed lace held to the head her illusion veil, and she carried a white prayer book showered with pink roses and stephanotis.

The couple will reside at Bakersfield, Calif. The bride is a June graduate of the University of Nebraska, and Mr. Svenson is a graduate of the Milford Technical School.

The bidding:

Opening lead — ace of hearts.

Here is a dramatic hand played in the European championships in 1956. It occurred in the match between France and Italy.

When the French held the North-South cards, the bidding went as shown. Bourchtoff opened four spades and Szwarc responded four no-trump (Blackwood). Szwarc then bid six spades after Bourchtoff indicated he had no aces.

Of course, Bourchtoff was sorry he wasn't in seven when dummy appeared, but when East showed out on the ace of spades, he silently congratulated himself for having stayed out of the almost-sure-to-make grand slam.

There were fireworks when the Italians held the North-South cards. At their table the bidding went:

East	South	West	North
1 ♥	4 ♠	Pass	4 NT
Pass	6 ♦	Pass	6 ♠
Pass	7 ♠	Dble.	7 NT
Dble.

Jais, for France, started the ball rolling with a heart bid. Forquet bid four spades. Trezel passed. Siniscalco bid four no-trump (not Blackwood). Forquet accepted the invitation to bid a slam by jumping to six diamonds and then boldly undertook a grand slam when Siniscalco bid six spades.

Trezel now doubled. This was a somewhat doubtful procedure since it might have provided Forquet with the clue on which to justify a first-round spade finesse.

However, Trezel struck gold by doubling. Apparently, the double convinced Siniscalco that Trezel had a sure trump trick and that the grand slam could not be made in spades.

Accordingly, he bid seven no-trump. He had no heart stopper, it is true, but he calculated (incorrectly) that Forquet would not have bid seven spades unless he had the ace of hearts. Siniscalco apparently thought that seven notrump might be made without bringing home the entire spade suit.

The outcome was disastrous. East led the king of hearts and the defense peeled off six heart tricks to set the contract 1,100 points. Italy lost 2,080 points on the deal.

Dear Abby

Can't Be 'Too Safe'

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: My wife invited her whole family out to the house for the Fourth of July when she knew I had been having a lot of trouble with a bad back. I didn't even know anyone was coming until three carloads of them pulled into our driveway. I was in bed at the time and in such agony I could hardly stand up straight. So my wife comes in and asks me if I would mind barbecuing hotdogs for 42 people! I pulled myself out of bed and barbecued, but it almost killed me. I was so mad I didn't speak to her for a week. She still can't see where she did anything wrong. Can you explain it to her, woman to woman?

MISHUGA

DEAR MISH: Your wife was very inconsiderate to have invited guests, knowing your condition. But if you left a sick bed and in agony barbecued hotdogs for 42 people, you must have been delirious. Chew her out and get it over with.

DEAR ABBY: My boy friend is a real nut on safety belts. Since he put them in his car I can't sit close to him any more. The minute we get into his car he straps himself in, and tells me to do the same. Abby, this means I am strapped in near the door—just miles from him. I don't like it. Any suggestions?

TOO SAFE

DEAR TOO: You can't be "too safe." Safety belts are for YOUR protection as well as his. Hang onto him—but not while he's driving.

CONFIDENTIAL TO SID: You have a "gelt" complex. Forget your money and perhaps everyone else will.

Unload your problem on Abby. For a personal reply, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to ABBY, care of this paper.

FUN NEWS IN SUBURBIA

EASTRIDGE

Life continues to be interesting—and entertaining—in suburbia as the summer progresses . . . and we have news of some of the items that make it so.

Dinner guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Edward J. Hlavaty on Wednesday, July 25, were Mrs. Hlavaty's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Lee Henderson of Birmingham, Ala., and their three children.

Also joining the group for the evening was Mrs. Hlavaty's and Mrs. Henderson's mother, Mrs. Joe Beranek from Wahoo.

Off for a few days of fun and sightseeing in Kansas City, Mo., this past week, were Mrs. Melvin Rumbaugh and Mrs. Lloyd Stall.

A recent newcomer to Eastridge, Mrs. Philip Loignan, was the honoree at a morning coffee, given by Mrs. Jack M. Knodle and Mrs. Vincent Adams. About 20 guests were present to welcome Mrs. Loignan.

Guests-for-the-evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George H. Culwell this past week were Mr. and Mrs. Duane Anthony, and family, of Columbus, Ind.

And on Tuesday evening Mr. and Mrs. Culwell and their family were present at the annual picnic of a Lincoln bookstore at Pioneers Park.

There was a gathering of the family at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Knuth on Saturday, July 28, in honor of the eighth birthday of their daughter, Susan.

Attending the birthday dinner were Susan's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Knuth of Utica, and Mr. and Mrs. Emin Eliason of Wahoo; and her uncles and aunts, Mr. and Mrs. Nels Eliason, Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Eliason, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Eliason and Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Eliason and their families, all of Wahoo and Mr. and Mrs. Dan Keleher of Lincoln.

After the birthday celebration two of Susan's cousins, Richie and Marilee Eliason of Wahoo, remained in Lincoln for a few days' visit.

And previous to the family gathering—in fact, on July 26—Mr. and Mrs. Knuth and Susan, Stephen and Sandra were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Warren Redeger in Fremont for a day of boating and a picnic supper.

EASTMONT

Mrs. Charles Pelikan, her son Charles, and nephew Tom Wilson drove to Kearney last Saturday to spend the weekend with Judge and Mrs. Harvey Wilson and their daughter, Bonnie.

Tom Wilson, who is employed in Lincoln for the summer, is the houseguest of his aunt and cousin for the season.

About 10:30 Thursday morning, July 26, there was great fun and excitement on Bruce Drive, when a dozen or so of the younger residents held a "Bike Parade" on the street. According to the report we had from Mrs. Roy H. Ochsner, the bikes were very gaily decorated — and the affair was highly entertaining.

Dividing their vacation time between The Greenbrier Hotel at White Sulphur Springs, W.Va., and Washington, D.C., were Mr. and Mrs. Gerald G. Duling and their family, who returned from the east last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl H. Keister and their sons returned, on July 19, from Abilene, Tex., where they were the houseguests of Lt. Col. and Mrs. Roger Warner, and their family.

Lt. Col. Warner, who was formerly at the Lincoln Air Force Base, is now Base Commander at Dyess Air Force Base at Abilene.

Moving to Lincoln — and Eastmont—on June 23, were Mr. and Mrs. A. T. Holland, formerly of Waseca, Minn., and their children, 15 year old Kathy, Steven, 13, and Jane who is 10.

Mr. Holland is sales manager for the Federal Mutual Insurance Company in Lincoln.

Almost immediately after the Holland family were a bit settled in their new home, they left for a month's vacation which took them to the west coast and to the World's Fair at Seattle, from which they have just recently returned.

WEDGEWOOD MANOR

Guests expected in the near future at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Marshall, are Mrs. Marshall's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Ballje and their three sons, of Elgin, Ill.

The Ballje family has been on a camping trip in Colorado and will spend a few days in Lincoln before returning to Illinois. On the trip home the visitors will be joined by Mr. and Mrs. Marshall, Lori Ann and Jeffrey.

In Elgin, Mr. and Mrs. Marshall will be the guests of Mrs. Marshall's parents, Mr. and Mrs. James M. Stewart.

Then, from Elgin the Marshall family will continue to St. Clairesville, Ohio, where they will visit with Mr. Marshall's parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Marshall.

The Brides' Book

The marriage of Miss Juliana Mestl to Bill Inbody will be an event of Saturday, Aug. 11, and the ceremony will be solemnized at 11 o'clock in the morning at St. Teresa Church.

This morning, the bride-elect is announcing the members of her bridal party. Her matron of honor will be Mrs. Grady Kilgore, and the bridesmatron will be Mrs. James Folda of Omaha. Miss Kathleen Mestl of Omaha, cousin of the bride-to-be, and Miss Genie Hartman will be the bridesmaids.

Serving Mr. Inbody as best man will be T. V. Aldrich, and seating the guests will be James Mestl, brother of the bride-elect; Joseph Inbody, Mr. Inbody's brother; Karl Dickinson and Clarence Woolman.

On Monday evening, Miss Mestl will be the honored guest at a party for which Mrs. W. E. Hartman and her daughter, Miss Genie Hartman, will be hostesses at their home. During the evening, a one-gift shower will be presented to the honoree.

The bride-to-be was honored at a miscellaneous shower on Saturday evening when Mrs. C. P. McWilliams and her daughter, Miss Pat McWilliams, were co-hostesses at their home.

Mrs. Oliver DeMars also entertained for Miss Mestl at a bridal shower held at her home on Tuesday evening, July 24, and a linen shower was presented to the bride-elect on Sunday afternoon, July 22, when Mrs. Harold Wochner of Aurora, Mrs. Jack Cederdahl, and Mrs. Joseph Inbody were co-hostesses at the home of Mrs. Cederdahl.

Planning a late summer wedding is Miss Judy Jones, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard R. Jones, who has chosen Sunday, Aug. 19, as the date for her marriage to Dale Brinkhous.

The ceremony will be solemnized at 2 o'clock in the afternoon at the First Presbyterian Church.

For her maid of honor and only attendant, the bride-elect has named her sister, Miss Carolyn Jones.

Fred John will serve Mr. Brinkhous as best man.

Why Grow Old?

Eats Like A Bird

Josephine Lowman

We often hear a woman say, "I eat like a bird." Little does she realize the implication of this statement! A bird does not eat three meals a day, but it pecks away at little snacks all day long. In fact, a bird often eats more than its own weight in food during a day.

Sometimes a woman is a light eater and still gains, or remains overweight. This may be true if she has a glandular abnormality. However, such a very small percentage of overweights have this condition that you can almost forget it. At least do so until you honestly count your calories and hold your daily intake where it should be for a few weeks. Then, if you do not reduce, ask your physician for a metabolism test.

More likely you will find that you HAVE been eating like a bird! Many women who fail to understand how the calories in those little nibbles count up, not only fool others but also themselves. Just because they do not eat regular, large meals or skip a meal, they sincerely think of themselves as reducing.

Victor H. Lindlahr's latest book, "Calorie Count—(Prentice-Hall) has some interesting slants. In fact, it is full of information and is written most entertainingly. There is not a dull line in it.

To put it simply, the main theme in "Calorie Countdown" is that you investigate some of your worst eating habits. If you are overweight, you no doubt have quite a few which may seem relatively harmless but zoom your calorie count. The elimination of even a few of these makes a tremendous difference over the years, and even within a year.

Sometimes it is best to slip up on yourself gradually by cutting down gradually. Eliminate one fattening item of food which you eat habitually. After a while, get rid of a couple more of these. Also learn to substitute low-calorie foods for those which are fattening.

If you would like to have my "Trick and Treat Diet" which gives you treats while it tricks the pounds away, send 10 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for the "Trick and Treat Diet" booklet. Address Josephine Lowman in care of The Lincoln Star, Lincoln, Nebr.

'Belly Buttons' May Aid Our Astronauts

By RALPH DIGHTON

Los Angeles (AP) — Muscle control like that practiced by belly dancers soon may be used by gravity-imprisoned astronauts to turn switches they can't reach.

A University of California at Los Angeles team disclosed Sunday they have set up a gadget to train men to contract individual muscles much in the same way torso shakers over the ages have learned to make parts of their bodies ripple.

Electrodes attached to these specially trained muscles convert the tiny electrical charges of muscular contractions into impulses. Amplified electronically thousands of times, these impulses can be made to operate lights, switches or even small motors in artificial limbs.

Promising

One promising application, the school said, lies in space cabin instrumentation.

During lift-off, or re-entry into the atmosphere, astronauts are pressed back in their seats by a force many times that of normal gravity. It's impossible for them even to lift a finger.

If they had previously learned to contract selected muscles and were properly wired, the school said, the astronaust could operate their vehicles just by twitching single muscles.

'Far-Out'

"A far-out experiment," a school spokesman said, "might even be to wire up a top baseball pitcher, determine what muscles he uses on the mound, and then develop future Bob Fellers by training the same combination in aspiring pitchers."

To develop muscle selectivity the researchers rigged up a man's silhouette, punctured with holes. Each hole contains a light and represents an individual muscle. Electrodes attached to muscles are connected to the same muscle on the silhouette.

With practice, the subject learns to turn on any light by contracting a certain muscle.

The technique was developed over the past 3 years by Dr. John Lyman, Dr. Hilde Groth, Dr. Gershon Weltman and Franklin C. Debiasio.

7 PERSONS DIE IN CRASH IN B.C.

Quesnel, B.C. (UPI) — Seven persons — 6 from one family — were killed in a headon collision 9 miles south of here on a recently paved section of Caribou Highway.

The headon crash and a resulting wreck when a car rammed into motorists stopped at the scene also injured 6 persons.

Last Marines Quit Thailand

Bangkok, Thailand (AP) —The last 1,800 U.S. Marines stationed here since mid-May as a safeguard against Communist infiltration were flown out Sunday night to Okinawa.

But a ranking American officer said the detachment could move back just as fast, if needed. And Thai officials made clear they do not share what they think is a U.S. belief that the threat of communism from neighboring Laos has receded.

Adm. George W. Anderson, chief of U.S. naval operations, watched the departure of the Marines from their base at Udorn, some 40 miles below the Laos border. Later, at Bangkok, he said the Marines could return to Thailand "with utmost celerity whenever needed." He called their presence here at Thailand's request "a symbol of the U.S. strength, determination and ability to stand by its allies."

U.S. Ambassador Kenneth Todd Young also sought to reassure this American ally. He called withdrawal of the Marines, first announced in Washington, a "re-establsihment of mobile capability." They were brought in after Laos guerrillas swept up to the border two months ago.

Lincolnite Comments On Peru Coup

By JIM WOODSON
Star Staff Writer

A Lincolnite attending a farewell party in a Latin American capital recently was not at all surprised to find most of the invited guests absent.

Air Force Maj. Robert L. Brown, a Lincoln High School graduate, was terminating a 3-year tour of duty as air attache in Lima, Peru, when a military junta arrested Peruvian President Manuel Prado.

"The night of the takeover the army attache was giving a farewell party for my wife and I," the major explains. "But although a number of key military personnel were invited, only Col. Soldi of the Peruvian Air Force and his wife attended.

"About 3 a.m., the army moved into the palace. It was all done very quietly with a minimum amount of effort and problems.

"The next day the city's business went as usual. Very few military personnel were in the streets. Occasionally you would see a jeep or troop carrier go by. Many of the people didn't even know there had been a takeover until they got their morning newspaper."

That evening, related Maj. Brown, a group of students from San Marcos University tried to march on the Plaza San Martin and a small-scale riot followed, being dispersed soon afterward.

"The significant thing was that the Guardia Civil (national police) are the ones who handled the whole demonstration," said the major. "None of the armed forces intervened.

Seemed Normal

Everything seemed normal before the takeover, according to Maj. Brown, "although I heard that the bankers were complaining that no one was negotiating any business because they were waiting to see who was going to come into power."

But the situation began to get tense, he explained, when there was no majority for the presidential candidates and none was expected to get majority backing.

"They would have had to go to Congress," he said, "and no party had sufficient votes in that body to swing it, although the APRA (Victor Raul Haya's Popular Revolutionary Alliance) Party had the majority of seats.

"Consequently, there was much political maneuvering to get agreement for a sufficient number of votes for a majority."

Maj. Brown said that at this time he felt the armed forces were really looking for a way out without staging a military takeover, but the strong anti-APRA feeling among many of the leaders practically forced them to take some action.

"Primarily, what brought about the whole thing," explained the major, "was that the armed forces were charging fraud in the elections and the 3-man electoral board was ignoring them.

"The armed forces felt as if they were more or less being laughed at and that their prestige was going down because of this. But they probably would not have done anything had it not been for their strong anti-APRA feeling."

The air attache said the impressions he had formed of the military forces in Latin America during his 5 years there were that they "are extremely anti-Communist and very pro-U.S." He said one reason for this was that, "Most of these people have had some training in our country, and they know what the United States is like."

The major returned to the U.S. with his family after the coup had been completed, conferring with his superiors in Washington, D.C., on the situation before traveling to Lincoln to visit his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Norval T. Brown, 2343 Calvert.

NL HOPES TO EVEN ALL-STAR SERIES

Yankees Split With White Sox

New York (AP) — Juan Pizarro, batted out in the first inning of the opener, won the second game of a doubleheader in relief Sunday as the Chicago White Sox salvaged a split with the league leading New York Yankees. The Yanks won the opener 7-4, and the White Sox took the second 6-2.

The Yankees won the series, 3-1.

Charlie Maxwell slammed 3 homers, two in succession in the second game, to run his season total to 7.

The Yanks jumped on Pizarro for 5 runs in the first inning of the first game, Hector Lopez' two-run single and Bill Skowron's two-run homer doing the damage.

Denton—A crowd of around 300 joined some 60-65 motorcycle riders here Sunday afternoon for a benefit cycle scramble.

Proceeds from the event went to the St. Mary's parish building fund. St. Mary's Catholic church was destroyed by fire last year and a drive is underway for construction of a new building.

Shrine Profiles

Jerry Kilcoin, O'Neill

Class C all-stater Jerry Kilcoin will add speed to the North Shrine Bowl backfield.

The 3-sport star at O'Neill has run the 100-yard dash in 10.0, rating him in the top echelon of the state's sprinters.

Kilcoin

He pulled a muscle in the Class C century finals at the state meet after posting the fastest qualifying time.

Jerry lettered 4 years in basketball, football, and track at O'Neill and was all-Holt County for 3 years.

Kilcoin is the oldest Shrine player. He'll be 20 on Oct. 28. He is 5-9, 175 pounds and will wear No. 40.

Bob Stuver, McCook

McCook's Bobby Stuver had one of the best ground-gaining averages in the state prep ranks last fall.

The South Shrine Bowl scatback had enough long gainers to pull his average up to the 10-yard per carry average.

Sutver

Stuver is 5-9 and 170 pounds. He is spending his summer lifeguarding at McCook.

His top sports thrill was beating Hastings for the Big Ten championship two years ago.

South coach Cliff Dale may call on the McCook flash for punt and kickoff returns.

He will wear No. 21 for the rebels.

Red Sox Finally Clip Nats

WAshington (AP) — After losing 3 straight by one-sided scores to the Washington Senators, the Boston Red Sox came up with a 4-2 victory Sunday behind the pitching of Earl Wilson and Dick Radatz.

It was drizzling rain and the Senators had runners on first and 3rd and no outs when Radatz relieved in the 8th inning.

He fanned Don Lock and pinch hitter Joe Hicks, walked pinch hitter Bud Zipfel and then struck out Ken Hamlin.

The fireballing relief specialist fanned Jim Piersall and Harry Bright in the 9th and made Bob Johnson fly meekly to right.

Wilson was the winner for the 8th time as he held the Senators to five singles in his 7-plus inning stay.

4 Other Finals In Skatefest

By TOM HUTSON

Lincoln was the site of roller skating's version of the Indianapolis 500 Sunday night.

The 70-lap, 5-mile men's speed skating race was the climactic event of the opening night of competition in the American Amateur Roller Skating Championships at Pershing Auditorium.

Lanky Eddie Perelas of Gardenia, Calif., successfully defended his 5-mile title as he took control of the marathon race with 11 laps remaining and widened his lead to nearly a half lap at the finish.

Perelas time was 15:22.5, considerably more than the 14:52.4 record set by George Grudza, Penndel, Pa., in 1960.

John Drewry, husky Austin, Tex., speedster, led most of the way; but he had to yield to Perelas' long strides.

Don Munoz, from Detroit, Mich., finished third.

There were 18 entries in the race. Striped shirted officials had the edge, though, numbering 22.

An audience of nearly 3,000 had earlier thrilled to the rythmic and acrobatic maneuvers of the senior fours competition. The event had been scheduled as a final, but the number of entries necessitated an elimination round with finals tonight.

In the intermediate ladies singles, the graceful skating of Janet Hoke of Greeley, Colo., won her a first place.

The team of Robert Williamson and Betty Edgecomb of Peoria, Ill., took top honors in the novice dance.

In the juvenile figures division, Wayne Searle of Oaklawn, Ill., garnered the trophy in the boys section while Carol Janczewski, Fairborn, Ohio, was the girls winner.

The results:

Robinson's Heroics Up Reds Twice

Cincinnati (AP) — Frank Robinson was the man of the hour in Cincinnati Sunday after leading the Reds to an 8-6, 2-1 sweep of their doubleheader with the Milwaukee Braves.

The double triumph lifted the Reds to third place in the National League. Cincinnati won the four-game series 3-1.

Robinson hit two two-run homers to clinch the opener and scored the winning run in the nightcap to break a 1-1 tie. He doubled with one out in the 9th and crossed the plate on Marty Keough's single to right.

Up to the 8th inning, the season's largest Crosley Field crowd — 29,515 — watched Joey Jay shut out the Braves on two hits. Then Jay (15-9) walked Lou Johnson to start the inning.

The Reds got their first run in the second inning when Robinson doubled and crossed the plate on Hank Foiles' single.

Lincoln 9's Blast Foes

. . . CLASH TONIGHT

By CONDE SARGENT
Prep Sports Writer

Nebraska City — Lincoln Legion teams blasted their way to opening round victories here Sunday night.

Gerry's Sports Shop rambled to an abbreviated win over Beatrice in the afternoon and the Optimists, winners of this Area 4 tournament last year, ripped Nebraska City, 11-4.

The two Capital City teams will clash tonight at 8:15. Sunday's losers meet at 6 p.m. in the double elimination tournament.

The Lincoln lads boomed out a total of 28 hits. Five were home runs.

Gerry's erupted for 10 runs in the 7th inning of their game, prompting Beatrice to toss in the towel after dropping behind by 20 runs.

Rod Blood delivered Gerry's only home run, added a double and drove in 3 runs. Teammate Rich Schwabauer had 3 hits while Mickey Zangari was plating 3 with a triple and a single.

The Optimists broke up their game with 3 solo home runs in the 4th inning. Stan Grell, Bernie Rempe and pitcher Mel Hester each cleared the left field fense in that frame to knock out Nebraska City starter, Leverne Jensen and to start reliever Dewey Caster off on the wrong foot.

Triple play

Despite its shellacking, Beatrice boasted of the defensive gem of the day.

It was a triple play in the second inning. Gerry's had runners on second and third with none out when Bob McKay hit a sinking liner which Beatrice right fielder Steve Armstrong caught at his shoe tops.

The Gerry's runners assumed the ball would drop as a hit and Armstrong wasn't sure if he had caught it or trapped it so he threw it to catcher Dwight Tietjen. The Lincoln runners both had crossed home plate and Tietjen fired the ball to brother Doug for out number two at second base and then to third to complete the cycle.

Midgets

In a midget championship game, Fairbury earned a place in next week's State tourney at Sherman Field by outlasting host Nebraska City, 11-8, in an extra 8th inning.

The Fairbury Midgets collected 12 safeties, including a home run by Bill Hackbarth.

Nebraska City's midgets tied the game at 8-8 with a 6-run 5th inning, but Fairbury came through 3 more in the top of the 8th to win it.

Drysdale Tops S.F.

Los Angeles, (AP) — Don Drysdale scored his 19th victory and Frank Howard drove in 5 runs Sunday as the Los Angeles Dodgers completed a sweep of a big, 3-game series by defeating San Francisco 11-1 before 53,792.

Howard drove in a dozen runs in the series. He helped build up a 6-run cushion for Drysdale with a single in the first and later hit two more singles and a homer.

The Giants, who came here only a game back of the league-leading Dodgers, leave town trailing by 4 games, fattest lead the Dodgers have had in 7 seasons.

Drysdale — whose 9-game winning streak is the longest by any National League pitcher this season — gave up 6 hits, struck out 5 and didn't walk a man.

Drysdale, beaten only 4 times this year, lost his bid for his first shutout of the season when Willie Mays homered in the 7th. It was Willie's 32nd.

The Dodgers, who have beaten the Giants 8 times in 11 meetings this year, scored 6 runs in the first inning on 7 hits off loser Billy O'Dell (12-9) and reliever Don Larsen.

Howard, one of the hottest hitters in baseball the last month, drove in the first two Dodger runs with a single and picked up another RBI with a single in the second. He hit his 20th homer with the bases empty in the 7th and singled in another run in the 8th.

In his last 37 games, Howard has batted in 52 runs and hit 15 homers, 8 of them in the last 11 games.

The Dodgers sent 11 men to bat in the first. Maury Wills hit two singles in the inning and Tom Davis, Howard, Johnny Roseboro and Drysdale had one each. Daryl Spencer hit a two-run double.

Wills established a personal career high in the 8th when he picked up his 51st stolen base of the season.

He led the league with 50 in 1960 and 35 in 1961.

Sunday's turnout ran attendance for the series to 157,115. In 46 home dates this season, the Dodgers have drawn 1,539,746.

Podres, Pascual Get Mound Nods

. . . KALINE ON AL SQUAD

Chicago, (AP) — The National League finally gets a chance to square the all-star baseball series with the once-dominant American League today at Wrigley Field when Los Angeles' Johnny Podres faces Minnesota's Camilo Pascual in the 33rd game before 38,000 fans.

The National League once trailed the American 12 games to 4 in the early days of the competition but it narrowed the gap to 15-15-1. The Nationals won the first 1962 game, July 10, at Washington 3-1. And has been beaten only once in the last 7 games (the second game in 1961 was a tie). The game, scheduled for 12 p.m. (CST) will be carried on network (ABC) radio and television.

Some frantic last minute shuffling resulted in the selection of Podres, the Dodgers' left-hander, to start for the National. Manager Fred Hutchinson of Cincinnati, National League boss, had planned to start Warren Spahn but the Milwaukee veteran developed a stiffness in the left elbow. Podres was not on the club but was substituted for the Dodgers' Don Drysdale who pitched Sunday.

Ralph Houk, New York Yankee manager, picked Pascual, to start for the American League. It was a foregone conclusion that the starter would be a right-hander for the entire National League starting lineup, except the pitcher, bats right-handed.

Houk made two substitutions on his squad. Al Kaline of Detroit, who missed the first game because he was still out of action due to a shoulder injury, replaced Jim Landis of Chicago. The White Sox infielder was reported having trouble with a sore foot although he played against the Yankees Sunday. Ken McBride, last Angels pitcher who is sidelined by pleurisy, was replaced by White Sox right-hander. That left Houk with a 9-man staff including two lefties, Hank Aguirre of Detroit and Jim Kaat of Minnesota.

The starting lineups, exclusive of pitchers, had to be the same that opened the first game. They were picked by a vote of the players, managers and coaches in the majors. However, Mickey Mantle of the Yanks was permitted to switch back to his old center field job with Roger Maris of the Yanks moving to right. Mantle played right field in the first game because he had not regained full mobility after his knee injury.

After the starters finish it was anybody's guess who might pitch next. The National had 7 pitchers and the American 9 but most of them pitched either Sunday or Saturday. Podres (7-7) beat San Francisco Friday and Pascual (15-6) beat the Angels Friday.

Kroll Fires 70 To Win Canada Golf

Montreal (AP) — Veteran Ted Kroll, who hadn't won at PGA tournament since 1956, won the Canadian Open Golf Championship Sunday with a 72-hole total of 278, two strokes better than Charlie Sifford of Los Angeles.

Kroll, who was golf's leading money winner in 1956 but has had to be content with close finishes since, shot a final round 70, to capture the $30,000 tournament.

He started the final round even with Sifford, the 39-year-old five-time U.S. Negro champion, and they were still even 14 holes later.

Then Sifford faltered to an even par 72 on the Laval-Sur-Le-Lac course, for second money, his best finish of the year.

Omahan Wins Horse Prize

Omaha (AP) — Mary Mac Quiddy, 15-year-old Omahan who spent a month traveling to smaller horse shows for the experience, won the Western Horsemanship Championship Sunday in the Omaha Charity Horse Show.

Mary, who failed to qualify for the finals of the event a year ago, traveled 2,300 miles to compete in shows in Denison, Exira, Primghar, Indianola, Le Mars, Shenandoah, Rockwell City and Mallard, Iowa.

San Juan Sea, owned by Roy Carpenter's Apple Mountain Farm at Hamburg, Iowa won the two-year-old fine harness stake under the guidance of Dale Pugh of Omaha.

Patton's Cheyenne, world champion owned by the Rockridge Farm of Marietta, Ga., and driven by Danny Lanfeld Jr. of Omaha, was first in the $300 Shetland pony fine harness stake.

Poco Coed, owned by Floyd Feweke of Ord, was picked as champion quarter horse mare in competition Sunday morning.

Two Lincoln horses placed 1-2 in the $300 Jumpers Stake Sunday night. Syncopate, owned by Lowell Boomer, was first, and Cherry Coke, owned by L. D. Cherry, was second.

Good Place For A Dog House

Omaha (AP) — Mrs. Rollo Ackerman of Lincoln stopped traffic at the Omaha Charity Horse Show Sunday and didn't need horses to do it.

"They live in there," Mrs. Ackerman explained, pointing to her two dogs inside a 12 by 18-inch women's handbag. "They're even comfortable in there on jet flights."

Mrs. Zha Zha, a toy poodle, is tinted pink. Prazita, a Chihuahua, wears a jacket trimmed in mink. Both dogs weigh 1¾ pounds each.

Mrs. Ackerman said the dogs live in the handbag at home and are able to crawl in and out themselves.

Moose Clip Wahoo, 7-4

The Lincoln Moose, who for last half of the season have been on a win binge, clipped Wahoo and University of Nebraska pitcher Jan Wall 7-4 at Sherman Field Sunday.

Duane Steffen, helped by 4 double plays, got the Platte Valley loop victory for the Moose.

Lumpe Fires Athletics To 7-3 Victory

Baltimore (AP) — Jerry Lumpe knocked out 4 consecutive hits and drove in 3 runs Sunday as the Kansas City Athletics whipped the Baltimore Orioles 7-3 and salvaged the final game of a 4-game series.

Lumpe started his streak with a run-scoring double in the third inning after Oriole shortstop Jerry Adair muffed a two-out grounder.

The Kansas City second baseman also singled and scored a run during a 3-run rally in the 5th, bunted for a hit on a suicide squeeze play in the 6th, and singled home the final run in the 8th after Ed Charles doubled.

Bill Fischer completed his third game of the season in pitching the victory. Three of the 9 hits he allowed came in the second when Baltimore rookie Boog Powell knocked in two runs with a single. Brooks Robinson hit his 17th homer off Fischer with two out in the 9th.

Chuck Estrada, the first of Baltimore's 5 pitchers, was charged with his 12th loss in 17 decisions.

Tribe, Twins Split Twin Bill

Donovan Gets 14th Win, 3-2

Cleveland (AP) — Cleveland and Minnesota split a doubleheader Sunday, the Indians winning the opener 3-2 on Dick Donovan's 6-hitter. But the Twins grabbed the nightcap 7-5 in 11 innings, scoring the winning runs with the aid of a throwing error.

Donovan (14-4) lost his shutout bid in the 9th inning of the opener after Jerry Kindall dropped a pop fly and Vic Power rapped a home run. A key error by Power in the bottom of the 8th permitted Cleveland to score the deciding marker.

The Twins reeled off seven double plays, four in the opener. And Bob Allison cut down two Cleveland runners trying to take an extra base in the nightcap.

Minnesota broke up the 5-5 tie in the 11th inning after blowing a 5-2 lead built on back-to-back homers by Lenny Green and Power in the 7th inning. John Romano hit a two-run homer for Cleveland.

The winning rally started wtih singles by Rich Rollins and Harmon Killebrew. When Allison bunted, Indians' pitcher Bill Dailey dove for the pop, but it dropped out of his glove. From his knees, he threw wildly past first and Rollins scored the lead run. Earl Battey's sacrifice fly produced the insurance marker.

Koonce Wins 9th As Cubs Split A Pair

Chicago (AP) — The Houston Colt .45s scored a pair of unearned runs in the 8th inning to defeat the Chicago Cubs, 3-1, Sunday after dropping the opener of a doubleheader, 4-2.

The victory ended a 6-game losing streak and halted Chicago's winning string at 4 games.

The Cubs made but 5 hits in the first game including George Altman's 14th home run as rookie Cal Koonce, although needing help from Don Cardwell in the 8th, recorded his 9th victory in 12 decisions. Bob Lillis had 3 hits for Houston, driving in both of their runs.

The Colt .45s held a 1-0 lead in the nightcap when J. C. Hartman's first major league hit, a lead off single in the 3rd blossomed into a run. Billy Williams' 18th homer in the 7th tied it up.

Al Spangler opened the decisive 8th with a walk and Norm Larker bunted but was safe when first baseman Ernie Banks fumbled the ball. An infield out and an intentional pass loaded the bases before Carl Warwick snapped the tie with a sacrifice fly. Al Smith's single produced another Houston run.

Cardinals Throttle Mets Twice

St. Louis (AP) — Ken Boyer and Curt Flood delivered the key blows Sunday as the St. Louis Cardinals had to put on late rallies to down the pesky New York Mets twice, 6-5 and 5-1.

Ernie Broglio and Ray Washburn were the winning pitchers. Broglio has a 7-4 record, Washburn is 9-5.

The Cardinals took the series, 3 games to 2, with the first 4 games decided by one run.

Boyer's bases-loaded single produced two of the 3 runs that broke a 3-3 tie in the 8th inning of the opener. Fred Whitfield touched off the rally with a pinch double and two walks filled the bases against Ray Daviault, the losing pitcher in relief.

The third run of the inning scored from third while Boyer, who had broken from first, was being run down.

Circuit Clouts Revive Angels

. . . CASH GETS 30TH

Detroit (AP) — The Los Angeles Angels came out of their tailspin with 5 home runs Sunday and defeated the Detroit Tigers 12-8 in the nightcap of a double header. Al Kaline's two-run double provided the Tigers' winning margin in the 7-6 opener as the Angels lost their 3rd straight.

The split enabled the Angels to remain in second place, a half game ahead of Minnesota and 5 games behind first-place New York.

Steve Bilko, Felix Torres, Albie Pearson, Leon Wagner and George Thomas clouted homers for the Angels in the nightcap. Wagner, benched for weak hitting, hit a two-run pinchhit drive in the 8th that lifted the Angels up from a 8-7 deficit. Thomas added a two-run blow in the 9th.

The Tigers clouted 3 home runs themselves in the second game. Dick Brown and Norm Cash smacked solo homers and Rocky Colavito hit a 3-run belt that put the Tigers 8-5 in the 6th.

But Pearson retaliated with a two-run homer in the 7th before Wagner put the Angels ahead for the third time in the wild game.

Louisiana's Moderate Demo Wing Celebrates Rout Of Conservatives

New Orleans (AP) — The moderate wing of Louisiana's Democratic party — headed by Rep. Hale Boggs and two members of the famed Long family — Sunday celebrated victory in a primary that saw the rout of extreme conservatives.

Boggs, 49, a solid backer of the Kennedy administration and the third ranking officer in the House as majority whip, decisively defeated 3 anti-Kennedy candidates who campaigned on strong conservative and segregationist platforms.

Sen. Russell B. Long, 44-year-old leader of the dynasty that has dominated Louisiana politics for 35 years, rolled up a 4-1 margin over his only opponent, retired U.S. Army Lt. Col. Phil St. Amant.

Successful

And his cousin, Gillis Long, 39-year-old Alexandria attorney, made a successful political debut by unseating Conservative Rep. Harold McSween, 36.

Three other congressmen easily survived re-nomination fights. Rep. T. A. Thompson of Ville Platte defeated 3 candidates, while Reps. F. Edward Hebert of New Orleans and James Morrison of Hammond routed single opponents.

One sidelight to the primary was provided by East Carroll Parish (county), in northeast Louisiana, where Negroes voted for the first time in at least 40 years. Some 25 Negroes, registered earlier in the week by a federal judge, cast ballots without incident.

Settled

All of Saturday's congressional fights were settled in the first primary, in contrast to past elections where failure to get a majority has led to a bitter runoff campaign. In every case, the more moderate candidate was victorious.

The most important victory, from the national political viewpoint, was Boggs' overwhelming triumph in a contest seen as a key test in the deep south for the Kennedy administration.

Backed by organized labor and practically every elected official in the 2nd District, which includes uptown New Orleans and 4 outlying parishes, Boggs polled 64% of the vote.

Momentous

Greeting his supporters at a tumultuous victory celebration, Boggs called his triumph "a momentous victory over the hate and fear mongers of the John Birch Society" and a defeat for "those who imputed ill to the President of the United States."

Sen. Long, who has supported Kennedy more than a number of southern Senators, won with just under the 80% vote that most observers had predicted.

Although this was his first political contest, Gillis Long's victory was not unexpected. The 8th district, which covers 8 central Louisiana parishes, is the home territory of the Long family.

Price For Food Rises In Bulgaria

Sofia, Bulgaria (AP) — Bulgaria Sunday announced price increases for basic foodstuffs to battle an acute food shortage, and cuts in top salaries to help the state support food prices.

A decree issued by the government and the Central Committee of the Communist Party also announced that low-level farm wages will be raised to boost production morale in agriculture.

The decree said that beginning Monday, prices of meat and meat products, milk and dairy products, eggs and some vegetables will be increased. The decree did not disclose the extent of the increases but later the official news agency BTA said meat would go up an average of 23.7%, meat products 25.4%, poultry 27.2, dairy products 31.8 and eggs by 11.5%.

Bulgaria thus becomes the first East European country to follow the example of the Soviet Union, which earlier this year raised meat and milk prices 30%.

Bulgaria's 2,800-word announcement, published by BTA, said the measures demanded "temporary sacrifices from the town population and the working class" and were certain "to infringe on the budget of the working people."

"But under the present conditions that is imperative and corresponds to the lasting interests of the people."

Referring to salary cuts, the announcement said "it would be socially fair for the citizens who have relatively higher incomes to shoulder the main part of the expenses in connection with the increase of retail prices."

To boost food production, the government and party appealed to farmers "to utilize literally every foot of land, to improve the culture of farming and to fight, in spite of damages caused by drought, for higher yields in agricultural crops."

JFK Takes Sloop's Helm

Hyannis Port, Mass. (AP) — Sailor President John F. Kennedy Sunday took the helm of his own boat, the sloop Victura, which as a schoolboy he raced in summer regattas.

The President sailed the 22 foot sloop from Hayannis Port to Lewis Bay, where it was tied up to the presidential yacht, Patrick J., for several hours while a crowd of Kennedys waterskied, swam, and picnicked on the beach of Great Island.

It took a whole fleet to bring the Kennedys to the beach a few miles from the compound of summer homes.

The President's father, Joseph P. Kennedy, was on his own yacht, Marlin. Other Kennedys came to the rendezvous on the Patrick J., and there were at least 5 other boats for Coast Guards, Secret Service and Harbor Police.

At least a dozen boating parties were on the beach when the President arrived at the island, and numerous small boats moved about close to the shore during the several hours the President was there.

Although dozens of sightseers were close to the presidential party, a Secret Service agent approached a chartered press boat a half mile away with a request to move even farther out of the area.

The President also sailed Victura back to the Kennedy landing in front of his father's summer home, tacking into a fresh wind through a fleet of small catboats completing a race and passing within a few yards of a sightseeing boat with 30 or more passengers.

Blinding Blizzard Swallows Swiss Climbing Quartet

Kleine Scheidegg, Switzerland (AP) — A blinding blizzard Sunday swallowed up 4 Swiss alpinists — including two women — trying to climb the treacherous mile-high Eiger North Wall.

The first women to assault the deadly precipice, they are Loulou Boulaz of Geneva and Yvette Pilliard-Attinger of Neuchatel. The men are Michel Vaucher of Geneva and Michel Darbellay of Orsieres, both known alpinists.

Search parties returned from the mountain Sunday night without finding a trace of the 4. The search will continue Monday.

Loulou was a member of the first women expedition in the Himalayas in which two climbers were killed two years ago. Yvette made a name for herself climbing in the Dolomite Mountains in northern Italy.

$100,000 In Securities Recovered

New York (AP) — Police Sunday recovered $100,000 in stolen securities by using as bait an accused fence turned informer.

New York County Dist. Atty. Frank S. Hogan said the securities were stolen from the Wall Street brokerage house of Carl M. Loeb Rhoades and Co. sometime between last May 2 and May 17.

The Loeb Rhoades theft had no connection with a later theft of $1,370,000 in securities which were taken last month from Bache and Co., another Wall Street house. Authorities have recovered $400,000 of the Bache securities and arrested 14 men in connection with the case.

Hogan said 4 men have been arrested in connection with the Loeb Rhoades case. He said an anonymous postcard put police on the trail of the accused fence, Louis Amendola, a 33 year old carpenter who was picked up last week in Las Vegas, Nev.

Amendola told police the stocks were in the possession of Dominic F. Cataldo, 26, of 443 Linwood St., Brooklyn, Hogan said.

Hogan explained the chain of events that led to the stocks' recovery:

Burglars robbed a safe in a New York food specialty shop some weeks ago escaping with $1,400 in cash, a $431 check and a certified check for $84,000.

Later, in Las Vegas, Amendola was picked up for questioning by police when he attempted to cash the $84,000 check and then was returned to New York on charges of forging a check to pay for his plane fare to Las Vegas. Amendola was accused of being the fence for the food shop burglary.

Later, an anonymous post card informed police "you'll find you missing stocks in a bakery on 14th street."

Police scouted a number of restaurants and bakeries on 14th St., and, in one of them, said they heard Amendola's name mentioned. Police questioned Amendola again. He implicated sataldo and agreed to help police trap him.

Acting on police instructions, Amendola met Cataldo in Brooklyn Sunday morning, was given the stocks and handed them over to police. Then Amendola phoned Cataldo asking him to come to a New York City hotel. When Cataldo walked in, he was taken into custody.

EVERYBODY'S MONEY:

Consumer Decides What Costs He Will Assume

By Merryle S. Rukeyser

Rukeyser

Howard J. Samuels, an upstate New York businessman who aspires to the Democratic nomination for governor, in espousing his program for greater expenditures for education and social benefits, remarked that he realized that this would impose new burdens on business.

"But," he added, "business has become more conscious of its social responsibilities, and is willing to do its part."

Attractive as this statement appears to be on the surface, it embraces a fundamental fallacy.

For it is not the businessman, who is a go-between among workers exchanging among themselves goods and services, but the customer who pays the freight.

By the simple and undramatic act of turning thumbs up or thumbs down on a proffered product at the supermarket, the consumer voluntarily decides what costs he is willing and able to validate and assume.

If business is to stay in the black and survive, it must induce the customer to assume all costs, including the tax costs and the capital costs.

In the final outcome of the competitive process at the marketplace, the social mindedness or lack thereof of the individual business executive is not the determining factor, but the attitude of the customer facing a variety of domestic and foreign products and services competing for his spendable income.

Thus some years ago when Paul G. Hoffman was president of Studebaker, his "liberalism" induced him to make generous terms with the automobile union. But the effect of the contract was to give Studebaker a higher unit cost than that of competitive companies, and eventually the union, sensing the realities, voluntarily consented to an adjustment of the contract.

Obviously, there is no fixed correlation between weekly or hourly wage rates and unit costs of production. Wise employers, recognized the value of incentives, have sought to pay prevailing wage rates or preferably a little better in order to attract loyalty and high productivity. As a nation, with advanced mass production technology, we long excelled in techniques for translating high money hourly rates into low unit costs of production. For a long time, we enjoyed virtually a global monopoly in the fruits of mass production and mass distribution.

But the character of international competition is radically changing. After World War II, through the Marshall Plan and other aid and loan projects, we helped Europe and Japan to recover from war damage, and financed their acquisition of modern equiment for advanced technology. The Common Market also provided the other necessary ingredient of a mass home consuming market.

As a result, we no longer possess uniqueness in contemporary technology, but face a new and stiffer competition from foreign industrial nations with lower wage standards. Fortunately the wage gap has been narrowing somewhat as foreign wage rates have risen more rapidly than our own.

Potentially, the rise of industrial prowess in free Europe, Japan, Hong Kong and elsewhere presages a world of higher living standards and more rapid growth. To the extent we Americans adjust to the new prospects, we may indeed face a period of unparalleled promise for expansion. But realism makes it clear that we cannot hereafter, willy nilly, add burdens to the cost sheet of U.S. producers on a unilateral basis without keeping an eye on trends among our competitors.

If Mr. Samuels and others are to plump for higher living standards over here, they must work out their blueprints in a creative spirit with the goal of compensating for generosity to human workers with increased efficiency and productivity. This in turn means more automation—more substitution of cheap machinery for expensive manpower, and stepped up research and development programs.

In the coming months of election campaigning to elect a new House of Representatives, a third of the Senate, many Governors and members of state legislatures, the impact of politics on business and finance is bound to increase. After the impairment of confidence this past spring, there is searching for changes which will restore faith in America's future. To my mind, this will not be accomplished by mere manipulation of public opinion with gimmicks and gadgets introduced by incumbent office holders eager to save face and retain power. The voters can create the foundations for rising confidence by electing personalities who are committed to the American free competitive economic system, as contrasted with the drift toward "a mixed economy." In loose word usage, this is sometimes described as a "conservative" swing or a move toward the Right, but such semantics are unscientific.

Within the framework of the American constitutional system for a free society, astute men are perpetually fighting obsolescence of techniques, methods and ideas. Thus, in light of the changing global situation, New Deal ideas should not be opposed on the ground that they are too radical or too novel, but on the opposite ground that they have already become "old hat."

Progress in the American free society is based on avoiding a cultural time lag, and envisioning procedures designed to meet a changing environment. The American management philosophy is not static or "conservative," but is creatively tied to constructive change through greater effort in research and development.

The function of the constructive engineer, inventor, and manager in business is to find ways to offset increasingly expensive manpower by economies in producing a given product in terms of manhours involved. Where survival is involved, the builders of prosperity should not be hobbled by antiquated economic wastes, fallacious and frozen ideas, and outmoded laws and practices.

(Mr. Rukeyser will be pleased to receive inquiries from readers concerning their financial problems. Letters with self-addressed, stamped envelopes should be sent in care of The Lincoln Star. Questions of general interest will be answered in the column.)

Adoula's Plan Carries 'Breaks' For Katanga

Leopoldville, Congo (AP)—Premier Cyrille Adoula formally proposed Sunday a new constitution for the Congo that makes significant concessions to demands for provincial self-rule from secessionist Katanga.

In a long-awaited communique, Adoula called on U.N. jurists to draw up a final document for presentation to parliament in September. Diplomats who feared some drastic U.N. action to end Katanga's secession greeted the statement with relief.

Katanga President Moise Tshombe has demanded a looser central government. Adoula's plan would grant local autonomy to the provinces, which in theory at least are under control of the central government.

Adoula said each province would control local administrations, make its own economic arrangements and be responsible for maintaining law and order within its boundaries.

The federal government would be responsible for foreign affairs, national defense, customs, currency and foreign trade, immigration and communications.

Adoula noted the proposals grew out of work by a government committee, which included one of Tshombe's representatives.

The premier asked the United Nations to send a team of international constitutional experts at once to draw up such a constitution. In a letter to acting Secretary-General U Thant, he said the final draft would then be presented to parliament immediately after the summer recess.

Adoula proposed that at least one member of the international drafting team should be an African.

3 Priests, Woman Drowned As Boat Upsets In Mich.

Paw Paw, Mich. (AP)—Three Roman Catholic priests and a 60-year-old woman drowned when their 16-foot outboard boat overturned in Maple Lake in this southwestern Michigan community.

The victims were Rev. Anthony Wade, 43, Rev. Clarence Wood, also 43, Rev. Raymond Fleissner, 27, and Mrs. Veronica Lang. State police said the 4 were returning from a water carnival fireworks display when their boat somehow flipped over.

Fourteen-year-old Sheldon Rupert Jr., of Paw Paw, discovered the overturned craft and pulled the bodies of Father Wade and Mrs. Lang from the water. Skin divers found the bodies of the other two priests later.

Texas Youths Leave Ledge In Good Shape

Pine Springs, Tex. (AP) — Two West Texas high school youths were back home Sunday after being trapped for a harrowing 24 hours on a ledge high in the rugged Guadalupe Mountains.

The boys — John (Buddy) Myers and Lowery Thompson, both 17, of Abilene, Tex. —were rescued from their precarious perch late Saturday. Both were in good spirits and physical condition despite their ordeal.

They were trapped Friday night after climbing one of the high peaks in the 8,000-foot high Guadalupe Range.

Coming down, they chose a short cut to the J. C. Hunter Ranch which placed in their path several rock precipices, 500 or more feet straight down.

Thompson slipped just above one of the cliffs, injuring his ankle. As Myers attempted to help his falling companion, he also slipped. They landed on the narrow ledge, just inches from almost certain death.

The pair was among 39 Abilene high school students and 3 or 4 adults who were guests of Carolyn Hunter, a classmate. Her father owns the ranch on which the mishap occurred.

DAMAGE HEAVY AS BOMB POPS DEPOT LOCKER

Kelowna, B.C. (UPI) — A dynamite bomb planted in a steel locker exploded at a bus depot Sunday causing an estimated $15,000 damage. Authorities said it may have been planted by the Sons of Freedom Doukhobors.

The blast hurled the steel lockers 150 feet. Pieces of metal whizzed through the depot like shrapnel. However, no injuries were reported. Only a very few people were in the depot at the time.

"The bomb could have been placed by a crank," a spokesman for the Royal Canadian Mounted Police said. "But it was typical of those used by the Doukhobors."

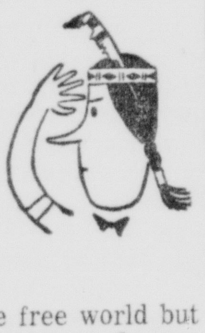
The Sons of Freedom Doukhobors are a radical branch of the sect that came to Canada from Russia. They believe in violence, and stage arson and bomb attacks, and their women take off their clothes and parade in the nude to protest limitations placed on them by society.

In recent months, women of the sect have taken to burning down their own homes to protest arrests of men of the clan for blowing up a government power line. More than 130 homes have been destroyed.

Chinese Plane Falls

Taipei, Formosa (AP) — A Chinese Nationalist air force transport plane crashed into Formosa Strait near the Pescadores and air force headquarters announced one crewman was killed and two others were rescued.

America is spending more money in other countries than they are spending with us. This worries the President. If the President is worried, I am going to help him worry.



One of the ways we are going to get our money back is through tourists.

All over the free world (we call it the free world but we expect them to spend some money) — the U.S. Government has opened offices of the U.S. Travel Service.

And in London, we are advertising that Britons can come over and have a ball for $14 a day.

☆ ☆ ☆

This is surely tempting. If you can travel around the States for $14 per diem, I am coming home myself.

Anyway, the idea is to brief the peasants in Chicago to be on their best behavior. Be sure the Kentucky moonshiners don't overcharge for that quaint local brew. A few folk dances in native costume would help.

If we all get behind this thing, there is no reason why we shouldn't be as wealthy as France. Service compris and all that.

☆ ☆ ☆

Fortunately, I have been able to check out this $14-a-day thing. A young Englishman who calls on my teenage daughter just returned from a year of touring the States.

"What was the first thing said to you when you landed?"

"I got off the boat in New York. We were two hours in Customs. As I came out on the dock, there was a policeman at the door. He said, 'Put out that cigarette, buddy!'"

☆ ☆ ☆

The young man was not sure whether he made his tour on $14.

"I ran out of money after two weeks and went to work selling encyclopedias. I worked in a crew of encyclopedia sellers, door-to-door. And in this way, I was able to travel as far as Chicago. Seeing all the glories of the Midwest and the customs of the rubber workers in Akron, Ohio."

At Chicago, he switched to handing out soap samples.

"When I wanted to go to a new town, I looked in the newspaper ads for people who wanted someone to help them in driving. I never had any trouble moving on."

☆ ☆ ☆

The things that impressed him most: The Great Plains. The miles of corn across Iowa and Nebraska. The conversation in highway cafes.

"As soon as I said I was English, everybody wanted to fight the American Revolution all over again with me. The trouble was, I didn't know much about it.

"Our history courses consider that a rather small thing—we were busy with Napoleon and continental affairs at the time."

The city he liked best was San Francisco. And the city he liked least was Phoenix. "You can't tell whether it's a city surrounded by desert. Or the desert is surrounded by Phoenix. It didn't seem to have any music or theaters. Just bars and movies."

☆ ☆ ☆

Generally, he found the natives friendly and prices reasonable.

"One difference I noticed is that there is no school uniform as there is in England. Except in the West. The uniform there seems to be blue jeans."

He was amazed by the litter along the highways. "Mile after mile of beer cans. Even when you are miles from any town."

☆ ☆ ☆

His last contact was with the police, oddly enough. "I was helping someone drive from Seattle to San Francisco, where I was going to catch a ship home.

"It was outside some small town in Oregon—I forget the name. There was this sound of sirens. We stopped and this policeman pulled open the door and said: "Okay, buddy, you're going to jail!"

They took him before the Justice of Peace and fined him $14—a day's travel worth. And the next day he was in San Francisco and taking a boat home.

He was delighted with the whole trip and hopes to come back.

Here's How To Work It

A X Y D L B A A X R

One letter simply stands for another. In this example, A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Here is a practical little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add three. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures gives you.
